Four Women in Paris... Are We Wives or Widows

PARIS (UPI)—Four women married to U.S. airmen shot down over Vietnam sought a meeting with North Vietnamese officials to find out "if we are wives or widows." The four arrived Sunday night from Dallas, Tex. They said they had applied for a private meeting with officials of the Hanoi delegation to the Vietnam talks.

"Each of us hopes that our husband is still alive and we hope and pray that the North Vietnamese delegates will tell us where they can be found and if they are in good health," said Mrs. Bonnie Singleton, wife of Capt. Jerry Singleton.

The other three were Mrs. Joy Jeffrey, wife of Capt. Robert Jeffrey; Mrs. Sandy McElhanon, wife of Maj. Michael McElhanon; and Mrs. Paula Hartness, wife of Capt. Gregg Hartness, all from Dallas.

"Our husbands have been missing from eight months to four years and we are hopeful North Vietnamese representatives will tell us if we are wives or widows," the four said in a statement.

"If we are wives—and each of us believes our husband is still alive—we hope and pray North Vietnamese spokesmen will tell us where our husbands are, and if they are in good health," they said. "We are also hopeful the North Vietnamese spokesman will explain why we have not received any replies to the many letters we have written to our husbands."

The four women said they planned to stay in Paris for up to a week to see a member of the North Vietnamese delegation. The North Vietnamese were not available for comment.

Saturday at the 33rd session of the talks, Ha Van Lau, the deputy North Vietnamese negotiator, said American prisoners were "war criminals" who did not benefit from the Geneva Convention agreements on prisoners because Hanoi had made reservations on the agreement.

North Vietnam has repeatedly refused to respond to U.S. requests for a list of American prisoners. About 1,400 men are listed as missing in action in Vietnam or as prisoners, but it has been estimated that only about 600 of these are alive.

Thieu Announces Plan

40,000 More to Come Home

SAIGON (AP)—Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said tonight that another 40,000 American troops will be withdrawn from Vietnam between now and November.

Ky made the announcement through an aide shortly after an emergency meeting of the South Vietnamese National Security Council.

Ky said a communique from the South Vietnamese government would be issued Tuesday.

President Nguyen Van Thieu apparently gave his approval for the withdrawal in a meeting late in the afternoon with acting U.S. Ambassador Samuel D. Berger and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of American forces in Vietnam.

Abrams and Berger had conferred with Thieu at the presidential palace in an extraordinary meeting at 8 a.m. Sunday. It was at this meeting, less than two hours after Abrams returned from Washington and a conference with President Nixon, that Abrams presumably relayed Nixon's plans to withdraw additional U.S. military personnel.

Authoritative sources in Saigon said Saturday that about 30,000 officers and men of the U.S. Navy will be pulled out over the next nine months as part of Nixon's cutback in military strength.

This would reduce U.S. Navy strength in South Vietnam to about 5,000 officers and men who would stay on as a naval advisory group.

The U.S. Naval Command would be deactivated with the withdrawal, the informants said.

The U.S. Command announced today that as of last Thursday, American troop strength in Vietnam stood at 508,000 men, a drop of 1,600 from the previous week. A spokesman said, however, that this was one of the usual fluctuations caused by rotation of personnel, not a permanent reduction in strength.

Nixon's initial 25,000-man cutback was completed last month.

One phase of the withdrawal moved U.S. Army units out of the Mekong Delta. U.S. military spokesmen said the Americans moved out, North Vietnamese troops in the delta doubled in number, to between 2,000 and 3,000 men.

One Viet Cong regiment of 1,000 to 1,500 men—most of them North Vietnamese—moved into the delta in April, the spokesmen said. Another regiment from the North Vietnamese army reportedly slipped into the area during the summer months as two brigades of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division were pulling out to go home.

These were the only American Army forces in the delta other than advisers to South Vietnamese units. However, the two enemy regiments are operating in areas where no U.S. troops were ever stationed.

U.S. headquarters said South Vietnamese forces killed at least 83 men from the North Thursday and captured four others after the North Vietnamese attacked an Army training center. Four trainees were reported killed and 19 wounded.

This is the first confirmation in the history of the war of a regular North Vietnamese army unit operating in the 4th Corps Tactical Zone, a U.S. communique said.

"The infiltration into the delta of these units may not have been just to provide a threat once we withdrew," said one military spokesman. "It's a shaky business. It's hard for the North Vietnamese to operate in the delta. It's a move you wouldn't think they'd want to make if there were no pressure on them."

"They are probably there to shore up the Viet Cong or provide some stability and motivation for the Viet Cong local forces who have taken a bad beating and are having difficulty in local recruiting."

Probe Columbia Air Crash, Two From Dutchess Killed

By WALTER S. CLARK

GERMANTOWN

State and federal authorities today continued investigation of the fatal crash of a light single-engine plane on a farm near Livingston town in Dutchess County.

The crash, which claimed the lives of two Dutchess County residents, occurred on a farm near the Dutchess County line.

Claverack State Police and Federal Aviation Agency officials launched an inquiry immediately after word was received that a 1966 Cessna 172 Skyhawk plane had slammed into a hill side during intense foggy conditions on the Hermitage Farm near here.

Killed in the crash were Henry G. Gardiner, 39, of Orchard Road, Town of Poughkeepsie, the pilot of the ill-fated aircraft, and a passenger, Mrs. Carole S. Rittinger, 44, of Ireland Drive, Town of Poughkeepsie.

Investigators said the plane had taken off from the Sky Acres Airport in LaGrangeville, just southeast of Arlington, a short time before it crashed at about 7:15 a.m. Sunday.

Troopers said Gardiner had apparently not filed any flight plan and the destination of the aircraft was not determined.

State Police reported the plane was heading in a southwesterly direction and traveling in extremely foggy conditions, probably at a low altitude, when it crashed into the bottom of a hill on the Hermitage Farm operated by Charles A. Eggert.

The force of the impact ripped the motor from the plane and hurled it about 20 feet from the wreckage of the aircraft. The two bodies were found near the plane, authorities said.

It was reported that workers on the farm heard the plane flying low but no one noticed any sounds that would indicate the aircraft was in trouble.

Columbia County Coroner Donald Tkacz of Hudson, and Dr. Leopoldo Guano, coroner's physician, went to the scene to investigate. It was later reported that Gardiner and Mrs.

Rittinger died instantly of multiple fractures and internal injuries.

Tkacz withheld an official finding pending completion of the investigation by FAA Investigator Reese Mitchell of Albany and State Police Lt. Frederick Fordham, Sgt. Herbert Newton, BCI Investigator Robert Brenzel and Trooper Frank Pesce of the Claverack sub-station.

The bodies were taken to a Hudson funeral home where they were identified and held until relatives had them removed to Poughkeepsie.

Authorities are trying to determine where the two victims were going at the time they were killed.

In another Columbia County weekend fatality, 10-year-old James Farron, of West Lebanon, lost his life Sunday at 4 p.m. when his bicycle collided with a car as he rode along Route 20 near the Massachusetts state line.

The boy was pronounced dead by Dr. Irving Rubin on arrival at St. Luke's Hospital in Pittsfield, Mass.

The Catholics hardened in their position toward the remaining barricades over the weekend, which saw sporadic violence and the death of two British Army soldiers.

The army called for reinforcements for the soldiers who have been patrolling on 16-hour shifts to keep a kind of peace between the Catholics and Protestants.

The British sent in 500 reinforcements today to speed the work of barricade building. A spokesman for the 6,500 man task force of British soldiers said the reinforcements would arrive Tuesday and Wednesday to "thicken" patrols in areas where Catholic and Protestant neighborhoods meet.

Wearied by long hours and alarmed by the deaths of two troops during the weekend, the army asked for and was granted the reinforcements by Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government.

They face increasing hostility from Protestants who were urged into battle Sunday by the Rev. Ian Paisley, their militant spokesman. In a speech to 2,000 of his followers, Paisley said: "The fight is on. This is not a garden party. It is a battle."

With the aid of police, submachinegun-armed British troops broke up sectarian rioting Sunday in areas already scarred by fighting a month ago that left eight dead and hundreds injured. But it was the deaths over the weekend of troops Michael Spurgeon and Christopher Edgar that roused

Those Belfast Barricades Still Standing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Roman Catholics living behind the barricades of Belfast voted today to keep their own barriers up until the British Army agrees to a six-point demand.

After two days of discussion, the Central Defense Committee, which represents 75,000 Catholic families in the barricaded zone, rejected appeals from the government and Catholic church leaders to dismantle the barricades.

Gen. Ian Freeland, the British Army commander in Northern Ireland, flew to London today for talks with Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

An army spokesman said the meeting was scheduled, last week and was not prompted by weekend violence or today's developments.

A total of 160 barricades remain up along the Falls Road and on its side streets despite the construction of a barbed wire "peace line" by army engineers to keep Protestants and Catholics apart.

The committee said today the barricades would stay up until it received written assurances from the army that the Catholics' six points would be adopted.

The demands: —Disarming and disbandment of the B.Specials (a Protestant paramilitary police force.)

NEW YORK (AP)—Nearly five centuries after sailors began the search for a Northwest Passage above Canada, the SS Manhattan has become the first commercial vessel to negotiate the icy waters.

But the historic voyage of the massive tanker, specially fitted with icebreaking equipment, hasn't proved that the treacherous northern route is feasible for shipping.

The 1,005-foot, 115,000-deadweight-ton ship smashed through heavy ice north of the Arctic Circle Sunday to hit open water at the mouth of Prince of Wales Strait.

"There's nothing in her way now," said a spokesman for Humble Oil Co., the ship's owner. Her final destination, Point Barrow, Alaska, is a week away.

As far back as 1498, when John Cabot explored the eastern end of the North Atlantic, Europeans sought the Northwest Passage as a shortcut to the riches and spices of the Far East. The great trading companies sponsored several attempts to find the route.

Now the treasure isn't spices, but oil, the vast supply on Alaska's northern slope. A Northwest Passage open to huge tankers would cut thousands of miles and dollars from the trip around South America.

But Wednesday, as the Manhattan jostled with ice flows near Banks Island, a Humble Oil official said no decision on the route's commercial possibilities would be made until the early 1970's.

Stanley B. Hass, Humble's project manager, told newsmen aboard that mountains of data only once, on Sept. 9 off Melville Island, she was freed by her es-bed to computers later this month. The number of times the ship became stuck in ice and the ice pressure it encountered would be two key factors, Hass said.

Hass pointed out that the ice commonly encountered. At Manhattan was picked "as the one point, she ripped through a best ship we could find in the 15-foot thick ridge almost from short time span given us to a dead start."

The ship sailed Aug. 24, from said the Manhattan "is not any Chester, Pa., with 54 crewmen where near the new ships we and 72 scientists aboard. She would design to sail these seas," carried a full load of ballast to The Manhattan became stuck simulate oil.

The Big Four's ambassadors to the United Nations held talks through the spring on a settlement, but suspended them July 1 to await the outcome of separate U.S.-Soviet talks which later also were suspended.

Says It Isn't So

TEHRAN (AP)—Iran's Foreign Ministry said Sunday a report by the Iraqi government about border fighting between the two countries was a "100 per cent lie."

Baghdad Radio said Saturday that Iraqi troops killed 30 Iranians and captured 14 who were trying to slip across the northern border to join the rebel Kurdish forces led by Mustafa Barzani. The broadcast did not say when the battle took place.

Met Stays Dark

NEW YORK (AP)—Metropolitan Opera performers will not be on stage tonight to open the Met's 85th season. Instead, they planned to play and sing "The Star Spangled Banner" outside the opera house today and explain their side of a contract dispute that has led to cancellation of the first four weeks of the season.

Rudolf Bing, general manager of the opera, said in a letter to the Met's 22,000 subscription holders, "Terms acceptable to the unions on paper are meaningless unless the Metropolitan can afford to pay them and continue in operation."

Second Officer Dies

SHERRILL, N. Y. (AP)—The Chief of Police in this small city has died of bullet wounds received when a gunman blasted him and another officer at point blank range last week.

Chief Thomas B. Reilly, 59, died Saturday at Oneida County Hospital in Utica, four days after patrolman Robert Mumford, 61, died of wounds at the same hospital. Charged with Mumford's murder was Martin Fitzpatrick, 33, of Syracuse, who police said shot both officers last Monday night as they questioned him about a service station holdup 20 minutes earlier.

Israeli Planes Attack Suez Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—News Agency said Egyptian aircraft gunners forced the Israeli planes "to flee eastwards" after they attempted to raid day, keeping up a campaign to force the Egyptians to shift areas.

The Cairo statement also said there was an eight-hour artillery duel Sunday near Port Taufiq, at the southern end of the canal. It gave no further details.

Montrepose Cemetery Vandalism

KINGSTON for the extensive damage. One End to the Other
Emil Wagner, superintendent of the cemetery, disclosed that the vandals went from one end of the cemetery to the other overturning memorial monuments and the urns as they made their way through the Jewish and Protestant sections. Some of the monuments were large and heavy, Wagner said. He added that the vandals must have worked for a long time during their raid of the cemetery property. He said no estimate of the damage had been determined.

The damage was discovered shortly before noon Sunday by persons who went to the cemetery to pay their respects to deceased relatives or friends. Wagner was notified of the incident and he called police to investigate. Preliminary investigation was conducted by Sgt. William Slovicer and Patrolman Thomas Scarey. The case was turned over to the detective division and plainclothesmen under the command of Det. Lt. Charles McCullough are continuing the investigation. Wagner did not disclose the amount of a reward that will be paid for information that will aid police in solving the damage. Anyone having information about the weekend incident, is asked to immediately notify city police. All information will be kept in strict confidence, authorities said.

Bids to 24th On Paltz Work

NEW PALTZ The State University Construction Fund will accept bids on a contract estimated at $36,000 for emergency masonry repairs to be made at the State University College at New Paltz, Gov. Rockefeller announced today. The architects on this project are the New York firm of David Todd and Associates. The work is to be completed by Nov. 30. Sealed bids will be accepted at the Albany offices of the State University Construction Fund until 2 p. m., EDST, Sept. 24, at which time they will be publicly opened and read aloud. The capital construction program being carried out at New Paltz is part of the State University's multibillion dollar physical development program directed by the State University Construction Fund, headed by Dr. Anthony G. Adinolfi, general manager. This public benefit corporation was established in 1962 by the Legislature upon the recommendation of Gov. Rockefeller to expedite the construction of facilities to meet the State University's Master Plan requirements.

Blaze Levels Summer Home At West Camp

WEST CAMP A two-story frame home on the Lauren Tice Road, West Camp was destroyed by fire early this morning, four hours after the owner and his family left for New York City.

More than 30 firemen from the Malden-West Camp Fire Company responded to the blaze at 2 a. m. at the summer home of William Gamble, a New York City resident. Gamble and his family left for the city about 10 p. m. Sunday, firemen said. Cause of the blaze that leveled the house is being investigated. The firemen said equipment returned to the station about 4:55 a. m. but a truck was sent back to the scene of the fire to keep watch over the ruins.

Three-Cornered Fight May Be Four

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three-cornered fight for the Senate Republican leadership could take on a new dimension if Gordon Allott of Colorado decides he wants the job vacated by the death of Everett M. Dirksen.

Before Allott's decision, which he said would come today, there were three candidates; acting Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, who's supported by GOP liberals, conservative Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska and Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, Dirksen's son-in-law who is pushing a broad spectrum position.

The Rudolf Hess Plot Created by Ian Fleming

LONDON (UPI)—The man who created James Bond also laid a plot that brought Nazi deputy fuhrer Rudolf Hess flying into allied captivity during World War II.

In a new history of Britain's Secret Service, author Richard Deacon says the late Ian Fleming, who created the Bond thrillers, hatched his Hess plot while serving in wartime in naval intelligence.

Much of the world—including Nazi fuhrer Adolf Hitler—was startled May 10, 1941, when Hess stole a Messerschmitt 109 and flew to Britain, parachuted into a Scottish haystack and explained he came to make peace between Britain and Germany.

Hess spent the rest of the war in captivity and is now serving a life term, handed down in the Nuernberg war crimes trials, alone in Berlin's Spandau Prison.

Fleming's use of astrology put him there, Deacon says. Hitler sometimes but Hess most of the time conferred with astrologers—as did such other Nazi leaders as SS chief Heinrich Himmler.

With secret friends and a cloak and dagger agent in Switzerland, Fleming helped plant an astrologer in Hess' circle of helpers.

The plot went to the trouble of planting identically false horoscopes with two regular Hess astrologers. All the starry forecasts made something big of May 10.

The stars, according to the British plants, indicated some well-known Britons were friends of Germany. All that was needed was for Hess to go there and the stars forecast Hess could solve all Germany's woes there and then.

The false horoscopes said Hess should act on May 10 because "on that date, six planets in the sign of Taurus coincided with the full moon," Hess went.

Hitler raged, arresting all Hess' aides, including the loyal astrologers.

Haynsworth Approval Likely Despite CR, Labor Opponents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite opposition from civil rights and labor leaders, all signs now indicate President Nixon's nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. for the Supreme Court will be confirmed by the Senate.

Senate Judiciary Committee hearings starting Tuesday could change the picture, but so far no organized effort has developed within the Senate to block approval of the 56-year-old South Carolinian.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who indicated he probably will vote against the nomination, has nonetheless predicted Haynsworth will be confirmed—and others not enthusiastic about the appointment agree.

The Haynsworth nomination also has picked up the far from enthusiastic support of Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., who spearheaded last year's successful fight to keep Abe Fortas from becoming chief justice.

"If you think my silence until now has been interpreted as meaning that I am not overjoyed by the appointment," Griffin said Sunday at Mackinac Island, Mich., "you're absolutely right."

"But on the basis of all the knowledge I have today, I predict that Judge Haynsworth's appointment will be confirmed with my support."

Acting Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania also indicated Sunday he might back the nomination, but for the moment would reserve judgment.

He spoke on the NBC TV radio interview program "Meet the Press."

More than a score of witnesses have asked to be heard at the committee hearings. Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he expects to take two or three days.

Haynsworth has been a judge on the 4th U.S. Appeals Court in Richmond, Va., since 1957, when he was confirmed by the Senate without opposition. He became chief judge of the court in 1964.

The White House, in announcing Aug. 18 the nomination to fill the court vacancy created by the resignation under fire of Fortas, said Nixon feels Haynsworth "has demonstrated judicial temperament, balance, impartiality and fairness."

However, in a letter to all senators, Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP and chairman of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, said "the constitutional rights of millions of Americans will be less secure" if Haynsworth is confirmed.

Wholly aside from his philosophy, a question promises to be fully explored at the hearings is the conflict of interest charge raised against Haynsworth.

In 1963, he sided with a court majority in holding that Deering Milliken Inc., a textile chain, did not commit an unfair labor practice against the Textile Workers Union of America.

At the time Haynsworth had stock, later disposed of for nearly $450,000, in a vending machine company that serviced three Deering Milliken plants.

After the decision the court found a conflicts-of-interest charge without foundation and expressed complete confidence in Haynsworth.

Mansfield Confused by Bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, admitting some confusion over President Nixon's on-again, off-again bombing halt in Vietnam, believes the short ban on B52 flights should have continued.

"I thought we should have continued the cessation of B52 bombing and continued the stand-down if at all possible," he said.

"I don't know how to size it up," Mansfield told UPI in an interview Sunday.

"They may know what they are doing in the administration, but it appears to me to indicate there may well be divided counsel."

Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, R-Md., Republican national chairman, defended the administration from Mansfield's statements and criticized the senator for making them.

"I don't think this kind of public criticism would help bring this war to an end," Morton said in Annapolis, Md.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, chairman of the GOP conference, has not yet announced a date for the caucus at which Republican senators will elect a new leader. It will take a majority of the 42 Republicans now in the Senate.

Scott said Sunday he had indications 20 senators favor him for the job with seven or eight other possibilities.

The Pennsylvanian also said a possibility exists of avoiding a fight altogether for the post if GOP senators decide such a battle might split the party.

Scott was interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" radio-television program.

Scott, 68, and Hruska, 65, are the veterans; Baker, 43, and midway through his first Senate term, is the newcomer.

Scott said his interest is not in misleading ideological labels but in effective Republican action. Hruska called himself "a representative of the broad middle ground," and stressed loyalty to President Nixon.

Baker said he is liberal on some issues, conservative on others, and can attract support from all segments of the party.

While his senior rivals stressed their experience, Baker, Dirksen's son-in-law, said he could offer the party a new face and reinforce the youth image within the GOP.

The job they seek pays $49,500 a year, offers an ornate office off the Senate floor and a black limousine.

Cornell Head Promises Protection

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Dale R. Corson, president of Cornell University, promised Sunday to protect the school from political turmoil by vigorously, but intelligently, enforcing public-order regulation.

He said in his first major policy speech since his appointment one week ago: "At Cornell we shall encourage free discussions; we shall gladly tolerate protests; we shall not tolerate coercion and violence."

Corson made the speech before the school's Constituent Assembly, a representative body established last April to consider the redistribution of authority on the campus and questions concerning the school's judicial system.

The assembly was formed after members of the school's Afro-American Society occupied the student union for 36 hours April 19.

The blacks, now known as the Black Liberation Front, left the building armed with rifles, shotguns and knife-tipped sticks after they gained amnesty from planned disciplinary action for eight students who had taken part in demonstrations in December 1968.

For the president, however, the maintenance of order was not to be a hindrance to the change he said was necessary for the future of America's universities.

"At what is surely a turning point in our history," he said, "we must realize that change, in the content and in the technique of education, is both inevitable and essential."

Corson said, "The university must respond to the terrible problems of the times. It is also imperative, that we create and preserve an atmosphere from which desirable change can emerge."

He said the university must "contribute to the basic attacks on war and poverty, on social injustice and on the devastation by pollution of our human ecology."

But, he said, "As we involve the university in the world beyond the campus, we must protect the university from political turmoil. The classroom and laboratory . . . must never become political forum."

Corson also spoke directly to problems he said were holdovers from the last school year.

Drag Race—3 Dead

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (UPI)—A man and a woman who were drag racing caused a four car pileup Saturday night in which three persons were killed, police said today.

The alleged drag racers, Florence Dennison, 20, of Greenfield Center, and Wayne Hammill, 30, of Saratoga Springs, have been charged by local police. Hammill was arrested Sunday evening and charged with leaving the scene of an accident. Miss Dennison was accused of driving while intoxicated.

Killed in the crash were Pamela Haskins, 20, of Pawlet, Vt., Paul Weatherwax, 22, and Edward Perkins, 27, both of Greenwich, Washington County. The victims were all in the same vehicle.

Police said the two suspects were drag racing on Route 29 when Miss Dennison struck the rear of Hammill's car, side-swiped a third car and slammed into the death car head-on.

The third car was driven by William J. Durham, 33, of Greenwich. Police said Durham's car also hit the oncoming car, but he was not at fault.

Auburn Fire

Emergency Is Lifted

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP)—The charred remains of three buildings stood as reminders today of a fire which threatened this city's business district and caused the mayor to declare a state of emergency.

Saturday night's raging fire forced the evacuation of nearby residents and scorched other buildings in the immediate area. Firefighters from all 23 fire districts in Cayuga County as well as one from Onondaga County were involved before the blaze was contained, some on stand-by while other companies were in Auburn fighting the fire. No one was seriously injured in the fire.

Destroyed in the flames were the Auburn Wood Products Company, the city-owned bus garage and another warehouse used for storage by the Columbian Rope Company.

Auburn Fire Chief William Maywalt said the damage could be considered major but that the cost estimate would probably not be too high. He said the buildings were part of an area to be redeveloped under a federal urban renewal program.

The fire began in the wood products building, he said, and spread to the adjoining warehouses. All three buildings were on a block bounded partly by the city's main street. At the height of the conflagration, sparks and burning embers settled to the ground as far as a mile from the scene. Some were carried by the wind past the city limits.

Mountain Airways Sets Mark

PORT EWEN

Mountain Airways' freight manager Robert DeEsso said the Port Ewen based outfit carried an all time high load of more than 12,000 pounds of freight during the month of August.

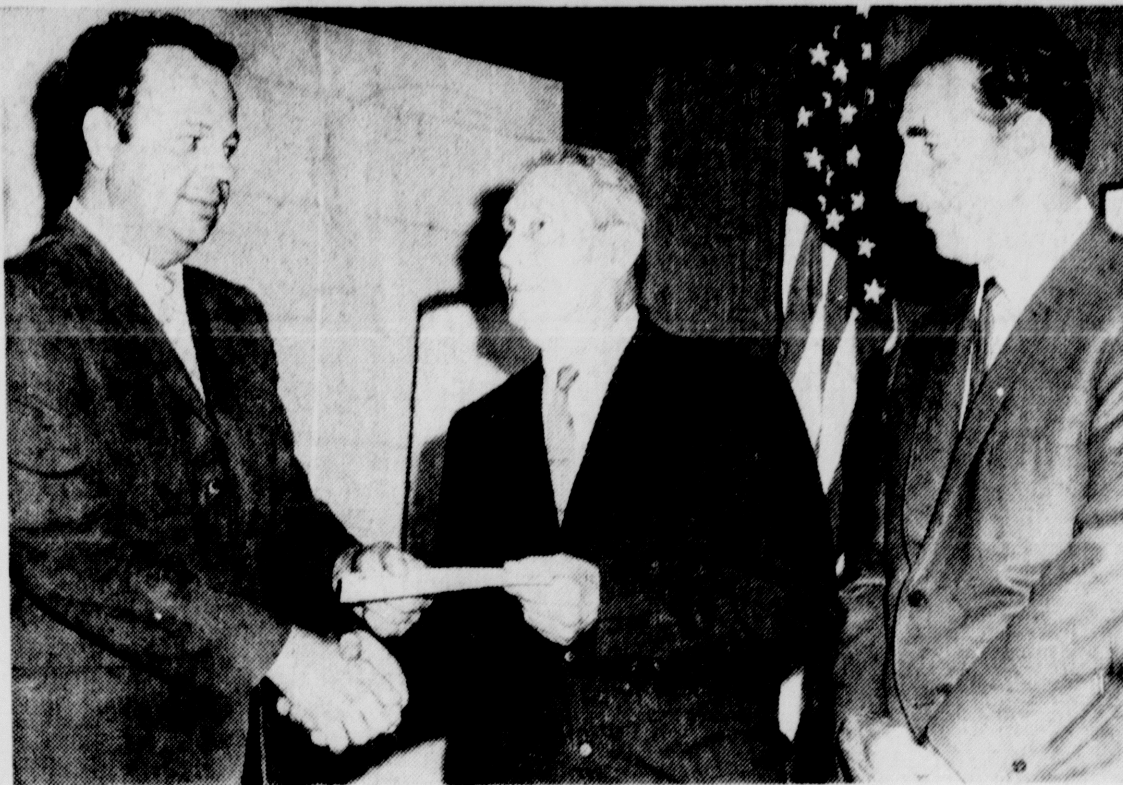

DeEsso also announced that the airways has been named an official agent for Airborne Freight Corporation of New York City and Seattle, Washington. He said Mountain Airways "is able to offer shippers 24 hour service to the west coast and through freight to any point on the globe."

Frank Bloom, president of the line, said the arrival of the airline's new twin-engine Britten-Norman "Islander" is expected later this month. Designed for commercial use with top passenger comfort, Bloom said an open house is scheduled for the arrival with the public invited to view the craft and take free rides.

The Islander is produced by Britten-Norman Limited on the Isle of Wight, England.

GUN FOR WIRE—Her pose may look ominous, but the girl with the gun is only shooting for hisses in pressurized telephone cable. She's Jeanne O'Loughlin, a clerk in New York Telephone's plant department, which is field testing this gun-like device for the nationwide Bell System. Developed by Bell Laboratories, it makes it easier to find aerial cable leaks before customer service is affected. The gun is actually a reflector attached to a microphone that can detect a high-frequency hiss generated when pressurized air escapes through tiny holes in a cable's sheathing. Many telephone cables are pressurized with dry air to prevent water damage if the sheath is punctured.

RETIREMENT—Fred Henninger (C) is retiring after 14 years of employment with Ferro-cube Corp., Saugerties. He has been assigned to the maintenance department of the firm during his entire length of service. He had a perfect attendance record. He and his wife, Charlotte, reside at 464 Main Street, Saugerties. John Ostrander (L), plant manager, presents the retiree with a gift as Paul Diequez, supervisor, looks on. Tax Reform Reformed

The House-passed tax reform bill is being reformed by the Treasury in testimony before the Senate Finance Committee. The proposed changes would grant less relief to the low and middle income taxpayers. They would reduce tax increases for business. The net result would be to increase the proposed taxes on individuals and lower them on corporations. The Senate is not likely to accept such changes without a big battle.

On the other hand, the Administration proposals would be tougher on the oil industry. So much so that Chairman Russell B. Long, Louisiana Democrat, whose state is one with large offshore oil installations, called the Administration changes "an anti-oil industry bill."

Conservatives and liberals both chided the Administration for shifting the balance in favor of business by cutting tax relief for individuals. The hearings will continue for five weeks. Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy, the leadoff witness, unveiled the Administration changes to a surprised and restless committee.

Escape of all taxation by 155 Americans with incomes of more than $200,000 in 1967 has become a rallying point for tax reformers. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee claimed the House-passed bill, largely his handiwork, would insure that every rich American will pay at least some tax. The Senate is not likely to alter this provision.

The Nixon Administration has given its opposition an issue and a rallying point. It is not too late to change. Tax reform is politically attractive in this inflationary era. Watering it down will offend countless people beset with high prices and melting incomes.

Rugged Individual

One of the most brilliant legal scholars of the century, U.S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff, of Washington, D. C., who died at age 82 last week, was also one of the most controversial. Reserved more time than any other judge who served during his tenure, he nevertheless left a judicial philosophy which could outlive the Court of Appeals members who could reverse, but not shake his judgment.

Regarded as an exceptionally "pro-prosecution" jurist in criminal trials, known for his long sentences of persons convicted of violent crimes, Judge Holtzoff once explained his judicial philosophy this way:

"What I cannot understand is why the so-called liberals are always leaning toward protecting criminals. I should think that they would lean toward protecting the public. Too many people who call themselves liberals really believe in dictatorship. A great many people who adopt the label of liberal feel that a defendant is put upon. But it is the victim who is put upon. The appellate courts do not see the victim. I see the victim. I see the perpetrator of the crime. I see the tragedy."

There has been a slight change recently toward his view. Too bad that someone who fought for it so long, as Judge Holtzoff did, cannot be around to see his philosophy vindicated.

Battle for Leadership

Sometime in the future, some even think not until after the current session of Congress, Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine will call the Senate Republican Conference to choose the new Minority Leader to succeed the late Everett M. Dirksen. A simple majority elects.

A late call would mean a prolonged period of jockeying for votes, similar to that which preceded the election of Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania as Minority Whip and second in command last January. His opponent then was Senator Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska.

The rivals may again be Scott and Hruska. Or the conservative wing, having lost the first round, may nominate Senator Gordon Allott of Colorado, in the hope of winning on his popularity.

Dirksen's successor as Senator from Illinois would be named by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, a Republican. However, there is speculation that Ogilvie might want the post himself, if he can make an arrangement with Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, a Democrat.

When a great oak falls, surrounding trees begin to appear in the light.

Plans to extend the West Front of the Capitol were defeated in 1966 and there was a tacit agreement to shelve them until after the end of the Vietnam war. Speaker John W. McCormack revived them on the same day that President Nixon ordered a 75 per cent cut in new federal construction. Another battle royal is probably coming.

Leyden, Mass., has defied the Supreme Court decision banning school prayers. The elementary school principal conducted the prayer service before the school bell was rung. A girl read a psalm. The students repeated the Lord's Prayer. The school bell was rung. Now they await the reaction of state officials, who are opposed.

David Lawrence Says Time for United Nations Action to Maintain Peace

WASHINGTON — Significant moves are in the offing which, it is hoped, will help to mobilize world opinion behind the peace endeavors of the United States.

The announcement that President Nixon will speak to the United Nations General Assembly this week comes at a time when the United States has pleaded in vain for the Soviet Union to help bring an end to the Vietnam War.

Unfortunately, Soviet Premier Kosygin, in his recent visit to North Vietnam, gave fresh assurances of all-out Soviet support, with complete backing for whatever line the Hanoi delegates choose to pursue at the Paris peace conference.

Despite the friction between Red China and the Soviet Union, Premier Kosygin, it is revealed also, stopped off in Peking and met with Chou En-Lai, the premier of Red China. This report was hard for many people to believe after the dispatches telling of the threats of war between Red China and the Soviet Union due to border incidents. But the Soviet news agency, in reporting the meeting, declared that the two Communist leaders explained their respective positions and "held a conversation useful for both sides."

As long as the Communist countries keep on supporting aggression and supplying munitions and military equipment to North Vietnam, there is little possibility that the Vietnam War is going to be ended on terms acceptable to the United States.

President Nixon really has no better course open to him than to tell the peoples of the world the facts about Vietnam and the grave dangers that lie ahead unless acts of aggression are repelled and all nations are allowed to choose their own form of government. Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson have appeared before the U.N. General Assembly in recent years, and the Department of State for several weeks has been working on an address which was to be delivered by Secretary of State Rogers at the U.N. session on September 18. But now President Nixon himself will make the speech, and Secretary Rogers will hold talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, who is expected to arrive from Moscow in time for the opening of the General Assembly in New York City on September 16.

Pressure is rising inside and outside of Congress for more positive policies with respect to the world situation. Advocates of isolationism — who are numerous — are largely guided by a belief that this course is politically popular today. There can be no question but that American public opinion favors an ending of the Vietnam War. But there is no evidence of a willingness by the President to pull out of Vietnam and out of Asia and give communism its biggest stimulus.

The United States started 50 years ago — when the league of nations was proposed — to nurture hope that some form of international organization could be set up which could perform the task of negotiating a peace-keeping formula respected by all the governments of the world. Regrettably, the U.S. Senate blocked ratification of the plan and, without America's support, the league failed.

Today it is plain to see that the United Nations also has failed in its job, although the charter of the organization specifically indicates ways and means of bringing about peaceful settlements of international disputes.

The United Nations has been frustrated by reason of the veto power that can be exercised by the Soviet Union in the Security Council. Collective action is nevertheless possible by the nations which wish to participate in peacemaking, but it is apparent that, unless the United Nations General Assembly takes a firm stand and organizes an alliance for such a collective defense of nations threatened by aggression, there can be no progress made toward assuring world peace.

The time has come to ask the United Nations to assume the responsibilities imposed by the U.N. Charter to help maintain peace. Certainly many nations would join in a collective defense plan if the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and West Germany indicated their hearty support for a worldwide alliance to maintain peace.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

To understand women, one must misunderstand them completely. In the main, they are animals of instinct and emotion. They despise logic and rationalization and put their faith in numerology, astrology, and a cat-like sensitivity which impels them to study a man and say: "No" or "Maybe."

The life form of the female is deceitful and possessive. Quite often the hair she wears is not her own either by color or strand. The face, assisted by cosmetics, is not hers — it is what she would like it to be. Even the undergarments are intended to fool the male into thinking that she has roundnesses where flatness or flabby bulge exists.

I have a lifelong admiration for women. They, and children, are the only things a man finds worthy of protection and love. The softness to touch, the elegant odor, the cultivated attitude of ignorance in the presence of his brilliance are all designed to ensnare and enslave.

It required many years of study on my part to learn that the house is her personal annex. It is an extension to her body. That is why she fusses and rearranges, hangs new curtains and drapes, and moves furniture. If she follows a deceased wife into a home the decor could be of the finest, but in time she will change it to suit herself.

That small picture of a former wife occupies only eight inches on a bedroom wall, but the new lady bides her time before dumping it in the garbage barrel. It may require a little time, but it will go. Old mementos of other days are mentally marked to be consigned to ashes too.

Few brides show their claws in the first few weeks. They yes the man to death, leading him into a deeper and ever deeper dependency until the time comes for the first real showdown. Then she asserts herself, and always on the same plane: "If that's the way you feel about it, it's me or that dog." (Or chair or antimacassar or color of a room.)

The trick is to make him think that he is the big, strong man dominating her while, in truth, he's an awkward bull with a ring in his nose. At an impasse, she will pretend to lose gracefully, but will store the matter in her head for another try at a future date.

I had a pretty house on the sand dunes at Sea Bright, N.J. It was a big, old place with a 175-foot driveway, a dropped well living room, an office with a covered pool table, a curved formica bar and a gorgeous view of the ocean and the Shrewsbury River. My first wife, Elinor, had taken a look at the leather furniture and said: "This would make a nice dental waiting room."

Kelly, my second and final wife, said it looked pretty and started to hide old photos of the pre-her era, change rugs, replace drapes, and tiddle the walls in old ochre and gold flecks. In no time at all, I found myself in Florida staring at a Chinese house. She said: "Don't buy it, Jim. It costs too much." So I bought it, exactly as she wanted me to.

Little by little, I understood less and less about how much I was earning, and how the monthly bills disappeared. "Not to worry," she counselled, kissing me tenderly. "You concentrate on writing, as God intended you to do, and I'll take care of the trivial details."

She nursed my father for the last four years of his life with patience and love. She made him feel he was still the big Irish bull of the woods. Immediately after he died, the decorators were called into redo his room in gold and black, with Oriental paintings on the walls. It is now called The Opium Den.

I wanted to sell my boat. The Away We Go IV, and wrote a column about it. Kelly gets first look at the mail, reads it and — sees next to my plate whatever she thinks requires my attention. No one, according to what I was permitted to read, ever nibbled on that boat. "I think," she said sweetly, "that we should keep the boat."

Little boys do not know they are little boys. The sexual differences do not cross their minds. On the other hand, a little girl is conscious that she is a little girl at all times. Her mind is on pretty frocks, coiffures, daintiness, and an icy cold assessment of all her girl friends.

It is not by accident that the average wife, placating a husband, will encourage him to build a game room in the cellar. This, she feels, is not a part of her province, and if it will keep him from growling about what is going on upstairs, it's worth it.

I have been trained and retrained by my mother, by Elinor, by Kelly, my older daughter, and now by the little ones. Kathleen, 14, selects my clothes when I am going golfing. All of it. I assure you, is a pleasant putdown.

Jack Anderson Says Some U.S. Officers in Vietnam In Favor of Thieu's Hard Line

WASHINGTON—Disquieting evidence has reached Washington that certain U.S. officers in Vietnam, who prefer President Thieu's hard line to President Nixon's moderate line, are sabotaging the truce efforts.

President Thieu strongly felt that the allies should intensify, not slacken, the fighting after Ho Chi Minh died. Old Ho had been built up to such heroic proportions, Thieu reasoned, that his death was bound to cause serious demoralization within the Viet Cong.

The South Vietnamese leader also anticipated a period of wondering and wavering while the Viet Cong waited for new policy directions from Hanoi. He argued that the allies should exploit this demoralization and dubiousity by increasing the military pressure.

President Nixon saw in Ho's death, on the other hand, a chance to take advantage of the three-day cease-fire proclaimed by the Viet Cong and, perhaps, to turn it into a general de-escalation of the war.

Gen. Creighton Abrams, the American commander, and Sam Berger, the deputy ambassador, dutifully called on Thieu and tried to persuade him to adopt the American view. When he bitterly denounced any de-escalation, they came back with new arguments and persuaded him to join in giving lip service to the three-day truce.

At lower levels, however, many U.S. officers not only sympathized with Thieu's stand but privately encouraged their South Vietnamese counterparts to violate the truce. Secret military dispatches indicate that the South Vietnamese, accordingly, stepped up military operations during the three-day period.

Note: American Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, who had flown on to Washington ahead of Abrams, might have kept the South Vietnamese better in line. He has more influence with President Thieu than does any other American. Of all the top U.S. officials who have visited Saigon, the one Thieu dislikes and distrusts the most is Secretary of Defense Mel Laird.

Alioto's Near Miss.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto's alleged association with the Mafia, the subject of a Look Magazine expose, was reported to Hubert Humphrey by the FBI before the 1968 Democratic convention.

This column reported immediately after the convention that Humphrey had considered Alioto, an Italian-American, as his running mate instead of Sen. Ed Muskie, a Polish-American, "because of the larger Italian population."

"However," the column continued, "Alioto has acted as attorney for Mafia leaders, so, while every man has the right to a lawyer, politics being what it is, Alioto had to be crossed off."

This column has now obtained a copy of Humphrey's confidential report on Alioto, which explains why the dynamic San Francisco mayor came so close to becoming the Democratic candidate for Vice President.

"This is an extremely capable and vital man with a decided capacity for growth," the confidential report to Humphrey said of Alioto. "His popularity could help in California. He communicates dedication, decisiveness."

"Furthermore, based on the 1960 census, there are 24 states in which the Italian-American population (the largest nationality vote in the U.S.) is greater than 10,000 (357 electoral votes).

"In the 12 crucial industrial states, representing 243 electoral votes, the Italian population goes from 1.5 per cent in Michigan to 2.5 per cent in Illinois, 4.5 per cent in Pennsylvania, 6 per cent in Massachusetts, 9.3 per cent in New Jersey and 14.9 per cent in New York.

"Taking the 1960 vote, we find 1.4 million Italian voters in New York and a Democratic vote lead of 383,000; a 525,000 Italian vote in New Jersey with a narrow election margin of 22,000; 509,000 Italian voters in Pennsylvania and a margin of 116,000; and in California 350,000 Italian voters and a Republican margin of 35,000."

The memo acknowledged that Alioto "is not known outside of California and among Italians." But it was the FBI warning about his alleged Mafia law clients that kept him off the Democratic ticket.

SDS Promotes Wars.

The militant Students for a Democratic Society have been posing on college campuses as pacifists who merely want to end all wars and usher in a millennium of long hair, flower petals and marijuana.

Their latest underground publications now reveal, however, that they really favor more wars. They want American youths to fight, but on the communist side.

The SDS is now trying to recruit students to fight in the jungles of Guatemala, in the mountains of Bolivia, in the rain forests of Thailand and anywhere else that communists revolutions can be fomented.

Chinese Missiles.

Intelligence reports assert that the Chinese have installed medium range rockets in Albania, the pro-Peking satellite, right in the heart of Europe.

In case of a war between Russia and China, these rockets could be launched against Russia from the rear. The intelligence reports indicate that some of these Chinese rockets may be armed with crude nuclear warheads.

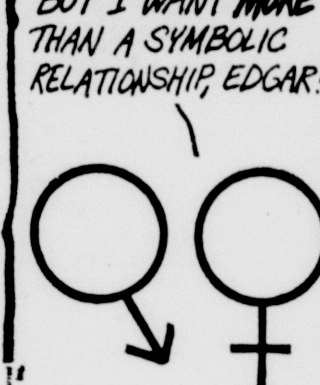

Anti-Poverty Problems.

President Nixon's new anti-poverty czar, Don Rumsfeld, is going to find himself without an agency unless President Nixon whips recalcitrant House Republicans into line.

A bill to extend the life of the anti-poverty agency has run into such powerful Republican opposition that it won't pass without some strong Presidential prodding.

BUT I WANT MORE THAN A SYMBOLIC RELATIONSHIP, EDGAR!

What Really Is 'Sympathy' With Student Rebel Aims?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — As the country's college students stream back to school, the most fearful observers worry over public opinion poll figures which show that perhaps two-fifths of the students "sympathize" with the goals of the revolutionaries and radicals.

Since three or four polling agencies agree on the proportion of college youth expressing such sympathy, the figures themselves can hardly be questioned. Nevertheless, the impression left by these findings could be grossly misleading.

At the outset, it has to be noted that — at least in the radical world — the contriving of goals is a very special art.

To dispose first of the easy part of the matter, it is well-established that revolutionaries and radicals deliberately include in their goals some widely felt minor grievances. This assures an automatic measure of support "on the cheap."

The larger point, however, is that revolutionaries — Communist, socialist, fascist or whatever — inevitably state major goals which are bound to be broadly acceptable in their general terms.

Douglas Pike, a specialist on the Hanoi-inspired National Liberation Front, notes that the Viet Cong's political objectives include building an "independent, democratic, peaceful, neutral and prosperous Vietnam."

In support of that aim, the NLF would promote the economy, education, culture, science, technology, public health, improved working conditions, veterans' and welfare benefits, integrated minorities, religious freedom and the rights of foreigners.

As he notes in his book, "War, Peace and the Viet Cong," these goals are almost "meaningless for political assessment." They are also the aims of the established South Vietnamese government. For that matter, adds Pike, what government anywhere in the world does not claim to stand for such things?

name of such unchallengeable goals. And, most importantly, how it is to be done.

The opinion sampler's job is not finished when he reports that 40 per cent of U.S. college youths have "sympathy for radical goals." What does that sympathy mean?

Are the presumably millions of student sympathizers prepared to follow the revolutionaries all the way in their violent "search-and-destroy" missions on the campuses? If not, where do they draw the line and why?

Large numbers of the sympathizers, often very bright young folk, insist they are against violence. Yet in the next moment they may add that they are willing to do whatever they must to achieve their goals. The logic of this is an inclusion of violence as a means of attaining their ends.

Hubert Humphrey took note of the youngsters' puzzling inconsistency in a speech in late May at Williamsburg, Va.

"In one breath, they insist on neat and rational order for society. In a second breath, they say that orderly thought and action imprison a man and corrupt the honesty of his responses."

Polltaker Daniel Yankelovich says that if the four per cent of revolutionaries can mobilize the sympathizing 40 per cent, "You have a mass protest."

The questions are: Mobilize to protest in what way? To strike? To burn down the school library? To assault unsympathetic students and teachers? To invade classrooms and try to shut others up?

If the mass of sympathizers really chooses to go that route in 1969-70 and beyond, then they will be well on the way to becoming nondemocrats — though it still would have to be demonstrated that such radical behavior would carry over into the adult political arena.

At the heart of the sympathizers' bewilderment is their confusion over "method." Their thing is to enoble their goals and proclaim method unimportant. But in democracy method is the whole story.

School Commends Garden Club For Instituting Hubbard Award

A letter of commendation from Woodstock School was read at the Woodstock Garden Club's meeting last week at Overlook Methodist Church Hall, chairman of the Florence Hubbard Award read a notification from John W. Cooper, principal of the Woodstock Elementary School, in which he commended the club for having anticipated events when it instituted the Hubbard Award as an annual occurrence.

The Woodstock Garden Club gave prizes last Arbor Day to those sixth grade pupils in the Woodstock School who wrote the four best essays on conservation.

Mrs. Bradshaw also read a letter from Mrs. Lambert D. LeMaire regarding the conservation workshop at St. Gregory's Church in Woodstock. Those interested should call Mrs. Otto E. Marquardt for reservations. Treasurer Mrs. Marquardt gave detailed report on the financial results of the July 12 bazaar. Vice President Mrs. Craig R. Vosburgh read the letter of appreciation from the chairman of the bazaar, Mrs. Earl W. Jones, sent to the club. Mrs. Henry Schwab, chairman of Unsolicited Awards, gave her report on the committee's findings and the club members voted on these recommendations the results of which will be given out at a later date. Mrs. Schmidt thanked Mrs. Deavers for her entry which represented the Woodstock Garden Club at the Dutchess County Fair.

The Ways and Means Chairman, Mrs. Arthur Jones, took orders for the Federated Garden Clubs' new calendar. Membership Chairman Mrs. Arch Brown reported one new member, Mrs. George Behrens, who was welcomed to the club. At the August meeting it was announced that two of the Club's members were being recommended for entry in the Federated Garden Clubs of New York's Book of Recognition. The two members, Mrs. Samuel Greg and Miss Theresa Kessel were present at the September meeting to hear that they had been placed in the book.

Mrs. Vosburgh, program chairman introduced the guest speaker, the renowned Mrs. William A. Beneshan whose talk, Nature's Heirlooms, was illustrated by her arrangements which she flat mounted in bas relief and framed. The Little Gardens Club of Kingston had nine of its members there, and there were other guests also. The members of The Little Gardens Club who attended were: Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Lewis Duquesne, Mrs. Clifford Henze, Mrs. Everett Landers, Ms. Kenneth Odell, Mrs. Frank Race, Mrs. James Shelhorse, Mrs. George Swart, Mrs. Richard Uhler.

Hostesses who served refreshments were: Social Chairman Mrs. Gilbert Schneider; Mrs. Fred Ertel, Mrs. Howard C. St. John. The floral arrangement on the hostesses' table was by Mrs. St. John. Mrs. Harry Schmidt presided.

Growing CYO In Phoenicia Is Sectioned

The Catholic Youth Organization of St. Francis De Sales parish has been sectioned into Senior and Junior divisions "due to the many age levels of the CYO'ers," according to the Rev. Thomas Baylis.

Seniors in the CYO will be from the 10, 11 and 12 grades with the Juniors being from the 7, 8 and 9 grades. Different meeting times for both groups have been scheduled with the seniors meeting on the first and last Thursday of each month, and the Juniors meeting on the second and third Thursday of the month.

Film presentations and small group discussions will play an important role in the CYO instructional program, according to the pastor. He also said the parents and the parish christian family group have agreed to participate.

Killed By Car

COHOES, N.Y. (UPI) — Edward L. Tompkins, 54, of Waterford, was killed Sunday when he was struck by a car on River Road.

two-county area Sunday for a jail escapee described as "violent and dangerous."

Eric Walther, 23, fled Saturday from Albany County Jail in suburban Colonie by making it over a 40-foot wall. Police said he punched a guard atop the wall before leaping to freedom. Police said they did not know how he reached the top of the wall.

Walther, said to be a karate expert with a history of escape attempts, was awaiting trial on two robbery charges when he made his break.

Dozens of reports Saturday and Sunday sent police speeding to widely scattered points in Albany and Schenectady counties, but Walther was not located.

Albany County Sheriff Edward Fischer described Walther as "a vicious, a man 'we must get.' He said the prisoner recently had been let out of solitary confinement where he was placed after an attempt to break away from guards at the Albany County Courthouse.

They thought the bombings were connected with racial and minority group tension.

McCutcheon said he was "convinced that this was the work of the Young Lords," a Puerto Rican gang angry with him for refusing to permit them to hold a Puerto Rican festival near a Methodist Church the Young Lords took over earlier this summer and turned into a day care center.

He also said various "radical elements" were angered by the slow pace of urban renewal and were using this as an "excuse" for causing trouble.

Singer was not as explicit, but noted "this is a pretty tense community" with Negroes and Latin Americans upset over urban renewal "pushing people out" of the Lincoln Park area.

Recently residents of the area began cleaning up an empty lot on which a private tennis club was to have been built, demanding low-rent housing go up instead.

Damage at both offices was slight, consisting of broken windows and slight fire damage to furniture and walls.

Both offices are in three-story buildings, Singer said. "It could have been very dangerous, as about 20 people live upstairs."

Both vehicles were demolished in the collision. Jamestown firemen had to use a portable power saw to cut a hole in Kline's car to remove him from the wreckage.

Kline lived at 16 Whitely Ave., and the Francis woman lived at 185 Baker St.

Kline was killed Sunday when he was struck by a car on River Road.

Police said a northbound car driven by Robert A. Kline, 19, of Jamestown, was in the wrong lane and collided with a southbound car driven by Clayton R. Casler, 41, of Ashville.

Kline and Casler were killed, as was a passenger in Casler's car, Allene E. Francis, 32, of Jamestown.

Services Cut Without Hike, Blue Cross Word

NEW YORK (UPI)—The top administrator of the Blue Cross hospital insurance plan in New York said Sunday that services would have to be cut if the company does not eventually receive its requested 43 per cent rate hike.

J. Douglas Colman, president of the Associated Hospital Service of New York (Blue Cross), said that if the State Appellate Division upholds a lower court ruling limiting the increase, the company will ask for another increase.

The Blue Cross president, who was grilled about rising hospital costs on WNBC-TV's "Searchlight," said costs were going up because of increased labor costs and the general rule of inflation and improved but more costly medical services.

Resigns for School

BATH, N.Y. (AP)—The mayor of this Southern Tier village has submitted his resignation and will go back to school.

Lawrence Bates, 32, elected in March, said he was resigning effective Oct. 1 because he was returning to the State University at Buffalo to study for an advanced degree.

Bates, a high school teacher and one of the youngest mayors in the state, said he could not devote enough time to his work as mayor while attending classes.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened higher today in moderate turnover.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator was up 0.60 per cent on 363 issues on the tape. There were 189 advances, and 82 declines.

Chemicals showed a steady tone. Steels were slightly firmer. Electronics and oils were mixed.

In the steel group, U.S. Steel picked up 3/8 to 38. Bethlehem 1/4 to 30 1/2.

Du Pont held unchanged at 122 in the chemicals. Eastman Kodak was steady at 77.

Among the oils, Atlantic Richfield gained 1/2 to 108 1/4, while Jersey Standard and Standard of California held steady at 70 3/4 and 60, respectively.

Natoma picked up 1/4 to 105 1/4, while Occidental rose 1/2 to 26 1/2. Gulf was steady at 36 1/2. General American of Texas dipped 1/4 to 66 1/2. Cities Service 1/2 to 51 1/2. Pennzoil lost 1/4 to 32 1/2.

In the electronics, Control Data gained 1/4 to 143 and Zenith 1/4 to 39 1/4. RCA eased 1/4 to 39 1/2. Westinghouse 3/4 to 56 1/2. National Cash Register 1 1/2 to 144.

Chrysler was unchanged at 38 1/2, but Ford climbed 3/4 to 45 1/2. General Motors edged up 1/2 to 73 1/4.

Classes Start In October for Hospital Aides

A second series of classes for adult American Red Cross volunteers will begin in October at Northern Dutchess Hospital, Rhinebeck, according to an announcement made today by Mrs. John Baker, volunteer director.

Five two-hour classes constitute the training program and will begin at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 14 in the hospital board room. Graduation is set for Nov. 18.

Charles Decker, director of nursing, commenting on the volunteers, said that they have fulfilled a real need in the hospital by relieving the nursing staff of non-medical patient care duties and bringing to themselves and the patients a sense of community involvement.

Women over 21 who are interested in the program are asked to contact Mrs. Baker or Peggy Smith at the hospital any weekday between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

NEXT U.N. HEAD — Angie Brooks is scheduled to become the President of the United Nations General Assembly when the world body convenes Tuesday.

Miss Brooks, 41, is the assistant secretary of state in Liberia, and will become the second woman and third African in the presidential office. She has been a United Nations delegate from Liberia for 15 years. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Against Pipe Dreams

WILLISTON, N.D. (UPI)—A department of the Interior official said today oil import controls would be needed even if Alaska drilling produced a big strike.

Dr. Wilson M. Laird, director of the department's office of oil and gas, told the North Dakota Oil and Gas Association that dropping the controls still would leave the United States "intolerably vulnerable to events in foreign producing countries."

What this country needs is a little less piggyness.

Do you know what could happen if everyone were just a little less piggy? We'd cool inflation. Inflation can be stopped.

Of course, Government must do the big part. But, as shoppers, voters, wage earners, and businessmen, each of us can help just by being a little less piggy.

So let's do it, let's all stop inflation. Find out more about this problem and what you can do about it.

For a free booklet prepared by the Joint Council on Economic Education, write to: "Inflation Can Be Stopped," P.O. Box 1900, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y. 10019.

Bott - Scott Wedding Announced

Miss Jacqueline Elizabeth Bott, daughter of John Joseph Bott, formerly of Kingston, became the bride of Thomas Ryals Scott, son of Mrs. Eldon Lewis and Angus McCallister Scott Sr., on Saturday, Aug. 30 at 2 p.m.

The ceremony took place at Church of the Little Flower in Coral Gables, Florida. The Rev. Sean Mulcahy celebrated the nuptial Mass.

Mrs. Vincent Jonathan Bochi, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Lydia Catherine Scott and Miss Mary Juanita Scott, sisters of the bridegroom, were attendants.

Angus McCallister Scott Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man and Robert Clifford Scott and Henry Willis Scott were ushers for their brother.

A reception, given by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Roger Gemmel Sr., took place at the Coral Gables Country Club.

The bride, who is a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula in Kingston, received the B.S. degree from Trinity College, Burlington, Vermont.

Mr. Scott is a graduate of Miami Dade Jr. College and presently attends Georgia State College in Atlanta, Georgia. He is employed in the Accounting Department of Southern Railway in Atlanta.

The bride's late mother was the former Elizabeth Murphy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Donald Murphy of Kingston. She is also the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bott of Kingston.

Mr. Scott is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Ryals of Dothan, Alabama and the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry Scott of Clopton, Alabama.

Upon their return from Jamaica, Mr. and Mrs. Scott will reside at 2131 Flat Shoals Road, Atlanta, Georgia.

Vice Chairman Is Named Guest Speaker by GOP

The vice chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, Mrs. William (Sally) Brinnier, will be guest speaker at a regular meeting of the Ulster County Community Chest. She is a D.A.R. member, former president of the Saugerties Power Boat Association Auxiliary and has maintained an active interest in many civic projects.

A graduate of State University at Plattsburgh, Mrs. Brinnier is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian L. Russell of Saugerties. She is married to William D. Brinnier, attorney. Mr. and Mrs. Brinnier have two children, Russell and William. The family resides at 7 Lafayette Street.

Members and friends are invited to attend.

They Couldn't Keep Ruth Down on the Kibbutz

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

TEL AVIV — (NEA) — It has been said that behind every successful man there's a woman who keeps his shoulder to the wheel. But in the State of Israel most women are so involved in helping to develop the economy of their country they have little time to prod their husbands.

Such a woman is Ruth Dayan, wife of Israel's minister of defense. She is the founder and director of Maskit, a government company created to promote the arts and crafts of Israel's immigrants, thereby providing them with a source of income.

Mrs. Dayan was born in Haifa in 1917, took her early education in England and then returned to Palestine (as it was then) and to school in Jerusalem.

In those pioneering days, settlement of the land was given priority over everything else and so she attended an agricultural school located at Nahalal, Israel's first communal farming village. There she met the young farmer, Moshe Dayan, and they were married when she was 18 and he 20.

"I settled down as a farmer's wife," she said. "And even found time to work at handicrafts which I loved to do."

But Palestine was not the place where pastoral calm could be enjoyed for long. And in those days before World War II, Moshe Dayan had already started his military career, defending their area from Arab marauders.

Ruth soon found that she had a job, too:

"I worked as a teacher to the hordes of immigrants who flocked to Israel during the prior to the war, helping them to utilize their traditional crafts and skills. It gave them a supplementary means of livelihood and at the same time kept alive the crafts which were in danger of dying out."

She traveled through villages and transit camps that had been hastily built to absorb the refugees and was a frequent and welcome visitor in the isolated villages, offering advice and choosing samples to sell for them.

The Dayan home in Jerusalem became an unofficial showroom for the arts and crafts of Israel's immigrants from Yemen, Morocco, Bulgaria, Poland and Kurdistan.

Government officials soon realized the value of her work in terms of immigrant absorption. And in 1953 when Moshe Dayan was appointed chief of staff of the Israel defense forces, she was given the position of head of the crafts department in the Ministry of Labor with a proper budget and transportation.

The following year Maskit was founded as a government company and since then Ruth Dayan's life has been intimately connected with it. She extended the scope of Maskit to include Arab and Druze populations in Israel and runs training programs for handicapped people and Arab women who are traditionally forbidden to work outside their homes.

"Arab embroidery is even more beautiful than the Yemenite work," she said. "But since the terrorists have become so strong it is difficult to get Arab women to work for us. They are threatened if they do and their fear is real."

"The terrorist movement came at such an unfortunate time. We were getting along better than ever with the Arabs and they trusted us," she said.

"Israeli Arabs all have relatives on the other side. And since the Six Day War they were working with us, too, earning money they hadn't had before. And we cared for them. Now they are afraid to show open friendliness and they, themselves, regret the present situation. It's their loss, too."

Ruth Dayan is a courageous woman, dedicated to helping Arab women to use their skill to keep body and soul together and increase the economic growth of Israel as well.

"The past year has been difficult for me in the Arab villages," she admitted. "Last year I was an honored guest. Now they only tell me their troubles."

Yet to maintain her position as their friend, Mrs. Dayan still drives in her easily recognizable Saab through their villages to visit and help where her help is accepted. And she refuses to use a guard on these trips.

"Why frighten them even more?" she said.

This most attractive woman is gifted with a shining, contagious warmth. Wearing a handsome tweed suit and a Roman coin ring that is 1,000 years old — a gift from the mayor of Jerusalem — she looked the epitome of sophistication. But when I asked her about diplomatic social life in Israel, she replied, "You mean official parties and things like that?"

"My husband doesn't like them," she said. "So I don't have to go." So I don't have to go. She sounded pleased about it all.

Ruth Dayan is recognized as an expert in arts and crafts and has represented Israel at many international conferences. She recently attended an International Labor Organization conference for developing countries in India and is due to go to another in Ethiopia. She is also active in welfare work for Jewish and Arab children and is vice-chairman of the Israel Variety Club.

Yet the wife of General Moshe Dayan takes home-making seriously, too, it seems. As she left she said, "I have to bake bread tonight." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Marie Lauriti Exchanges Vows

Miss Marie M. Lauriti of Samsonville, daughter of Italo Lauriti and the late Rose Lauriti, became the bride of Warren W. Hutton Jr., son of Mrs. Frances Hutton of 15 Merritt Avenue, Kingston, and the late Warren W. Hutton, on August 30 at St. John's Church in Stony Hollow.

The Rev. Maurice Walsh officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white lace, street-length dress with a short lace veil and carried a cascade of white roses and carnations.

Miss Kathy Turno of Samsonville was maid of honor in a beige lace, street-length dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisy chrysanthemums.

Donald Temple of 11 Fairview Avenue, Kingston, was best man.

A garden reception for 50 guests was held at the bride's home.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the bride wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and a rose corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Ontario Central School in Boiceville, attended Ulster County Community College, and is employed by Barclay Knitwear, Port Ewen.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is also employed at Barclay Knitwear.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutton Jr. will reside at 15 Merritt Avenue, this city.

Brighten a Dark Corner; Try a Bowl of Homemade Daisies

GLORIOSA DAISY, with its yellow-orange petals and its brown center, brightens any room setting, especially if a bowl of the popular flowers are tucked into a corner cabinet or library shelf. The daisy, done in crepe paper, is especially attractive when placed on darkly-finished antique tables.

In France, the flower's called la marguerite. In Scotland, they call it the gowan, and below the border, in England's Yorkshire, it's called the bairnwort — the children's flower. In America, it's sometimes called the bachelor's button.

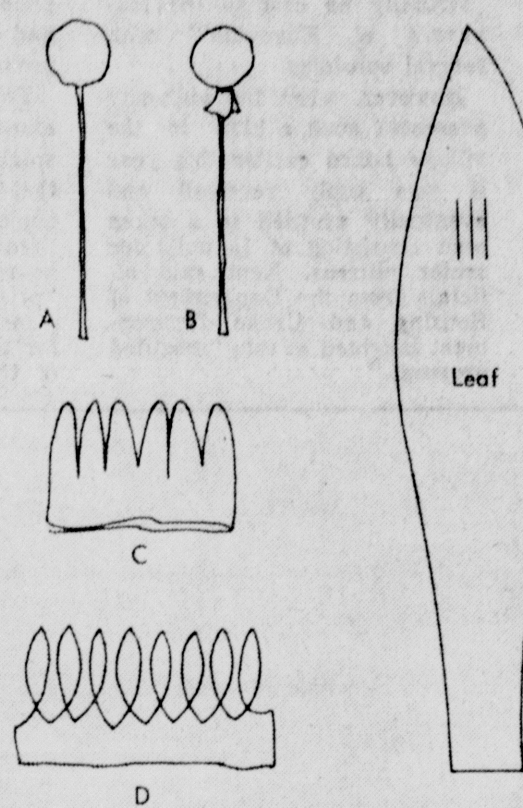

Wherever it grows and whatever it's called, the daisy is a pretty and popular flower. Dotted green lawns or riverbanks from March to through early Fall, the daisy adds attraction to a formal garden or a casual window flower box. Some gardeners like to plant daisies as a border for walks.

Indoors, the daisy's long white or yellow petals enhance the hues of darkly-finished antiques. In a corner cabinet or library shelf, out of the day's sunlight, daisies show themselves to advantage by lending a patch of bright color to their setting.

When the real flower isn't available, a remarkably accurate replica can be made from crepe paper—for instance, the Gloriosa Daisy, with its brown center, yellow petals, and green stem leaves.

The materials required to make this crepe paper flower are Yellow / Orange Madras Crepe; Leaf Green Crepe; Brown crepe; No. 15 wires; green cotton-covered spool wire; stem-winding crepes; and all-purpose white glue. These items can be obtained in stationery, variety, and hobby and craft stores or department stores.

GLORIOSA DAISY

DAISY INSTRUCTIONS

Here's how to make the flowers:

1. To make the center of the flower, stretch a two-inch square of Brown Crepe and rumble it into a ball. Flatten one side and punch one end of a No. 15 wire into it (Sketch A). Stretch another square of Brown Crepe over the ball and secure it with spool wire. (B)
2. Cut a strip of Madras crepe, two and one half inches wide, across the grain through the yellow and orange stripes. Then cut deep, narrow points along the yellow edge, rounding slightly (C). Unfold and wist each petal at the bottom (D). Paste the end of the strip of the brown flower center, gather two more rows of petals around the base and wist. Secure with spool wire.
3. Trim the leaves and curl them slightly over a scissors blade.
4. To make a calyx, or stem leaf, cut a strip of Leaf Green crepe one inch wide across the grain. Cut points as in (C). Gather and wrap one row round the base of a flower and paste to hold. Wrap the stem with stem-winding crepe, adding leaves as you wind. Paste bottom to hold.

Daisies look well in any arrangement, but for fun, try a shallow bowl.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Folks:
You might not believe this, but my desk got so full that I had to get another one!

The new second-hand one I bought does not have those little "dough boards" that you pull out to work on when your desk is so crowded you need more space.

Well . . .
The two little top drawers didn't hold much anyway, so I pulled both of them out and just turned the dadgum things upside down!

Now I've got an executive desk!

Not only does one drawer hold my portable typewriter, and make it a lower level or ordinary typewriter desk, but the bottom of the drawer is two inches lower than the top of the desk—just like it's supposed to be. Much easier to type. Besides, this makes it either a left-handed or right-handed desk. Ever thought of that?

The other drawer I use to put all that extra junk on when the desk is piled too high. Absolutely great!
So why don't you try doing this? I don't miss either drawer.

Now, you all write when ever the urge strikes. That's what I am here for. I just love to read your letters. Especially the letters of laughter! Just address your letters to Heloise, in care of this paper. They do not have to be signed.

All my love,

Heloise

This way you have to empty the water to get to the money. It's my foolproof burglar alarm . . .

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
I have invented a great way of keeping my brothers and sisters out of my piggy bank. I filled a large narrow-necked bottle with colored water (I used food coloring) and put my money into it.

Dear Heloise:
Listening to the many complaints about egg shells cracking when they are boiled, I came up with this idea and it really works . . . Just wrap your eggs in aluminum foil, then put them in the pan to boil. Nary a one will crack!
It has never failed me or

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

A new reference book came into our house the other day, The American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language. It is a big, handsome book, as a dictionary ought to be, there are lots of pictures, the print is nicely legible. Oddly enough, the page I am looking at has a picture of Adolph Hitler at the top and Ho Chi Minh at the bottom. This is the result of the vagaries of the alphabet, not, I believe, with any political implication. On another page is Oliver Wendell Holmes and a Holstein cow; the H's make strange bedfellows.

A distinguished group of experts were consulted about usage, or what sort of expressions in English you prefer. Not what is "right" necessarily but what you like. Thus the experts disliked ain't I, between you and I, and type for type of as in that type shrub. They refused to admit rather unique or most unique, unique being just unique. They disliked Senior citizen and rejected underprivileged as a nice Nelliism for poor. They accepted rambunctious as a pleasant, tangy word, did not worry much about who for whom, and were willing to accept it's me.

Beyond these matters, all of which were in an introduction, I have not looked at the dictionary very closely, although I hope to. Reading the dictionary is great fun, especially beginning at the top of a column and going all the way to the bottom.

But thinking about a dictionary made me remember an interview in the New York Times with some of the young folks who went in vast numbers to Bethel, N. Y., not long ago. A dictionary must have played a very small part in their lives, not to mention a consideration of literate speech. A young man said: "When we got there the people — the way they were dressed and talking. Everything was just so great—the attitudes, the atmosphere." A girl said: "I just had a feeling that, wow, there are so many of us, we really have power. I'd always felt like such a minority. But I thought, wow, we're a majority—it felt like that." Drugs were discussed and the consensus seemed to be that LSD or acid was not a good idea. "The only thing I really hate is acid. Like if you took it even once and 20 years later had a deformed child." "All my life I've had just about everything I want. And I have to have whatever I want for the rest of my life . . . and I don't want to work because I can't do everything and stay in the same place from 9 to 5."

There is nothing much wrong with the grammar of the last remark and perhaps all the remarks were understandable except for some unfamiliar words, to me, at least: downs, speed, freak out, bum trips, and so on.

Yet many of these young people are college students and almost all of them are in some sort of school. Where are they learning to talk? We heard a graduate of a mid-Western university make a speech the other night. In the middle of every other sentence she threw out her arm and said O.K. What will speech be like in 10 years, 20 years? If we accept the grass, the mesquite, the acid, can we accept the wows?

Ellenville Housing: Pessimism Prevails

ELLENVILLE

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

Last September the Village of Ellenville Housing Authority was formed to tackle the villages growing housing problems.

One year later the housing authority has been unable to make any headway in combating these problems and a authority members are pessimistic about success in the future.

The weakening morale of the four members came out in the open at a recent meeting of the Ellenville Village Board when Mrs. Cornelia Dyer, secretary of the authority, resigned because "virtually nothing accomplished."

Later Mrs. Dyer told the Freeman that continuing on the authority would be "a waste of time" because the village board seems to be opposed to the concept of public housing which appears to be "the only answer to the problem."

The problem, according to the housing authority chairman Gordon Kent is that there is an acute shortage of housing for new families in the community and that at least 75 of the village's existing housing units are sub-standard.

"The only realistic answer to this situation" Kent says "would be the construction of a multi unit complex of low cost public housing," which he notes could be accomplished at "virtually no cost to the taxpayers of Ellenville" with federal subsidies.

However, when the authority presented such a plan to the village board earlier this year it was coolly received and eventually whittled to a token plan consisting of 15 units for senior citizens. Kent said officials from the Department of Housing and Urban Development laughed at this "modified proposal."

The prevailing sentiment of the village board is essentially against public housing because they feel that such a project would be "inconsistent with the philosophy of the community" and that in any event "it probably wouldn't work."

They feel that Ellenville is essentially a community of small private homes and feel that families living in a housing project would develop a "renter's mentality," which the board said did not promote "pride or dignity."

Instead the board has pushed for more stringent enforcement of the village's housing code and has indicated interest in federal programs to subsidize home ownership and guarantee landlord's federally insured loans.

According to Kent the subsidy program has yet to be passed and the loan program was recently terminated.

One member of the village board, Trustee DeWitt Clinton is opposed to any form of public housing.

"I don't think that the village should be in the housing business," Clinton says, "with public housing we would just be moving the problem from one place to another." Clinton feels that a solution to the problem should come from the landlords, the tenants themselves, and the free enterprise system.

However, proponents of public housing do not share Clinton's view in the efficacy of the free enterprise system because there has been very little private development of housing in recent years and the likelihood of large scale development in the future is virtually nonexistent.

However, aside from the debate on public housing there have been other factors contributing to the stagnation of housing in Ellenville.

According to Kent the village is currently applying for the re-certification of its urban renewal plan, following a change in consultants, and virtually nothing can be done about housing until this certification is made.

However, in recent months there have been several indications that many federally subsidized housing plans will either be cut back or discontinued entirely.

Kent himself is not optimistic about the future.

"The housing authority and I are very discouraged about the prospects for any programs in the area of housing for the near future," he says.

DEWITT GURNELL

Three Parties Back Gurnell For Justice

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK DeWitt Gurnell is virtually assured of election to the office of Rhinebeck justice of the peace, having been formally backed by town Republican, Democratic, and Conservative parties.

Summing up his feelings about the undertaking, "Uncle DeWitt," as he is familiarly known among townspeople, quoted Supreme Court Justice John Mack: "A town justice should use 90 per cent common sense."

After defeating two young lawyers for the Republican nomination in close balloting, the popular retired pharmacist was warmly praised at the Democratic caucus by all present and particularly endorsed because of his stand on two local issues.

They are: pushing for investigation of a Town Youth Board, to work in alliance with the Dutchess County Youth Board, and initiation of the Home town Beautification Project rejected this past summer by the town fathers.

"A judge is caught right in the middle," he philosophizes, chin in hand. "The police will say you are not tough enough and the people will say you are too tough."

Gurnell has been doing his homework in preparation for the job visiting the justices in Rhinebeck and Red Hook, asking questions and seeking advice.

Recommendations by Gurnell have always leaned toward crime prevention, anti-crime education, and corrective methods following the misdemeanor.

In reviewing the possibility of keeping youth out of trouble Gurnell mentions some of the antics performed in the past by the area youngsters which tend to set town and village officials against them.

"One fellow was driven out of business by petty thefts, harassment, youngsters throwing beer cans around, and some kids from out of town causing disturbances," he recounts sadly.

"There is no organization of youth here. They do not like an organized program of activity, preferring to just have a place to go and relax with a pool table, juke box, and friends. But it will take organization in order to bring these things about."

As founder and former president of the Rhinebeck Historical Society, Gurnell has a natural interest in preserving what he calls the "character" of the area.

"When I first came here, it was not unusual to fill a prescription for 25 cents," mused Gurnell, but he was already figuring what the morrow might bring with his new responsibility.

Fly Fight

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia is winning its fight against the tsetse fly. Agriculture Minister David Smith told an international conference here.

"We can now look forward with confidence to the time when tsetse flies between the Sabi and Limpopo Rivers and the Indian Ocean will be finally eliminated and the land freed for maximum agricultural development," he said.

The tsetse fly, bearer of tripanosomiasis (sleeping sickness), is still one of the major scourges of man and beast in central Africa.

THE HARVESTERS — It's corn-picking time in Ulster County and at Davenport's 1,500-acre farm which spreads from Wawarsing to Hurley. It is a full operation, 150 workers, mostly migrant labor, harvest the crop all day, every day, seven days a week. Two methods of harvesting are employed, one with the use of the mule train, pictured at the left and the other carried out by the ground crew at the right. The mule train, which is drawn by a tractor and is continually in motion is a two-decker machine. Close scrutiny of the picture will show the legs of two men atop the vehicle, dangling from the front. Using the mule train is one continuous operation starting with the pulling of the corn off the stalk by the "puller." After breaking the cob from the stalk it is tossed on the train where the box maker sits on top making crates. The corn is given to the packer to be packed in the crates, the rick rack man closes it and it is loaded on a wagon which, when full, is loaded on a truck for delivery. The ground crew, on the other hand remains stationary while carrying out the same operation as is depicted in the photo at the right. In this case a mechanical picker dumps the corn in the wagon for packing. The farm, which is more than 50 years old and which has been producing corn crops throughout the years, sells to chain stores only, delivering the corn to various warehouses. Very little if any, corn is sold locally. Planted in the Spring with the first harvest usually in the second week of July, the corn may be seen growing in the fields of Accord, Stone Ridge, Hurley, Wawarsing and all points in between. The workers, some of whom have been coming to the area each year for 15 years are housed in various places. One group of Puerto Ricans reside at a camp in Kerhonkson, another group of persons on the Davenport payroll each year for years is housed in trailers provided by the farm. Still a third group including a crew and crew leader live in a bungalow colony in Rock Hill. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Agreement on Farmer's Plight; Fish Says Answers Are Tough

POUGHKEEPSIE — "The one point farmers, consumers and legislators seem to be agreed upon is that we need a complete and total reversal in the approach to the nation's farm problems," Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. reported this week.

"The question of how this will be done gains far less agreement," he concluded.

According to the congressman who visited the 28th Congressional District during the past two weeks, "The House Agricultural Committee started hearings in early August to tackle the task of not only facing up to the problems created by the old programs, but of mapping new plans that will guide agriculture in the future. This need for restudy occurred when the Agricultural Act on 1965 expired last year and was extended one year, as there was insufficient time for a complete study at that time. This revelation is taking place right now."

Continuing Fish said, "The question controlling what is to be done is, of course, the question of what objectives are to be aimed for by any program. Low food prices and high subsidies or higher food prices and lower tax support. The thinking which has dominated agricultural thinking for the past 35 years has been the idea of cheap food on the grocery shelves paid for by tax subsidies."

"Unfortunately, this program has not worked," he said. "Food prices, along with subsidy levels, have soared over the years until we now pay more at the grocery than any time in history, while at the same time spending $3 billion in various types of subsidy payments. Yet rural economy lags, rural unemployment is high and millions are driven to out already overcrowded cities."

"That the farmer has not kept pace, regardless of increased supports, is made clear when you realize that a bushel of wheat in 1963 sold for $1.94, while the same bushel on Sept. 2 of this year, earned just $1.33. When you consider this absolute price drop occurred during a period of rampant inflation, the plight of the farmer becomes even more dramatic."

"A plan which is being given careful consideration by the agricultural committee is one which would end all subsidy payments; marketing quotas, processing taxes, and direct payment for wheat, feed grains, and cotton over a five year phase out period. After that point, all commodities would move at the market price."

"This program would increase the Conservation Reserve Program, by directing the secretary of agriculture to retire at least 10 million acres of crop land per year from production, over the same 5 year period. The aid would be the removal of entire farms for long periods of time, rather than the present part-farm acreage withdrawal on a year-to-year basis."

STRICKEN HERO — Joe Namath grimaces after being dumped in the second quarter of the Jets-Bills encounter in Buffalo Sunday. Namath stayed in the game and on the next play tossed a sixty-yard TD pass to Don Maynard. The Jets won the tilt, 33-19. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Hulme Tops $ Million Cup Series

BRIDGEHAMPTON, N. Y. (UPI) — Denis Hulme won a world driving championship and would like to win another, but until that day comes along he'll take the money he earns in the rich Canadian American Challenge Cup series. Hulme now leads the million dollar series with his teammate Bruce McLaren in second place after the seventh of 11 races, the Bridgehampton Grand Prix Sunday, turned out true to the script the two New Zealanders have been following all season. It was the sixth one-two finish for the twosome in the bright orange McLaren M8B Chevrolts and perhaps the easiest.

Hulme set a race record average speed of 113.723 mph and a fast lap of 118.949 mph around the 2.86 mile Bridgehampton road course.

"Bruce lets me win every now and then to keep the help contented," Hulme quipped of his teammate who finished four feet in back of him. McLaren owns the small British-based engineering firm which has designed the cars that have dominated this series since its inception in 1966.

However, he is pretty serious about the money he has earned in the three and a half seasons, some, $138,610 compared to McLaren's winnings.

"I'd like the kind of money you can't ignore and I think you'll see more Grand Prix stars like Jackie Stewart and Jochen Rindt come over here to compete in this series once they can get cars," Hulme declared.

"Right now I would rather run Grand Prix races artistically but these Group Seven cars pay the purses that make life easier," Hulme added. "Grand Prix racing is so competitive that, just like the Can-Am, you have to devote all your time to it."

Hulme and McLaren went water skiing after qualifying early on Saturday and during the race Hulme declared that he dropped down as low as fifth place just to "have a bit of fun." He and McLaren traded the lead four times as they literally ran their serious competition off the course.

Both John Surtees of England, driving a McLaren-Chaparral and Chris Amon of New Zealand, driving a Ferrari, blew engines. Amon's went in the fourth lap while Surtees held second for nine laps while Hulme was seeing how the rest of the world lives.

He admitted he had time to count the house, a record crowd, while driving in the latter part of the 199.5 mile race.

The next Can-Am is Sept. 28 at Irish Hills, Mich. Hulme grinned, "maybe it will be Bruce's turn to win."

no one was demanding his money back.

New York's Namath, the pride of Broadway, passed for one touchdown and Buffalo's Simpson ran for one in his pro debut as the world champion Jets turned back the stubborn Bills 33-19 in their American Football League opener.

Elsewhere in the AFL, Oakland held off Houston 21-17, Kansas City trounced San Diego 27-9, Denver walloped Boston 35-7 and Cincinnati topped Miami 27-21.

The Bengals' victory was marred by the death of 29-year-old linebacker Frank Buncom, who suffered an early morning heart attack in his hotel room brought on by a blood clot on the lung.

Namath's statistics showed only seven completions in 19 attempts—he was intercepted three times—for 157 yards. Simpson, the rich rookie from Southern Cal, carried 10 times for 35 yards, caught two passes for 64 and returned three kick-offs for 68. His touchdown came on an eight-yard run.

"Make up anything you want to about O.J. and write it," Namath said. "I can't say enough good things about him. He's going to be great."

"I wasn't satisfied," Simpson countered. "I picked up a cold Saturday and it bothered me early in the game. And, I'll tell you, now that they're playing for real it's a lot harder."

After Namath's 60-yard scoring pass to Don Maynard and Jim Turner's four field goals gave the Jets a 19-3 lead, the Bills almost turned the game around. They managed a 19-all tie, but Matt Snell put the Jets ahead again on an 11-yard touchdown run with 7 1/2 minutes left and linebacker Paul Crane picked off a Jack Kemp pass and ran 23 yards for another TD.

Daryle Lamonica snapped out of the doldrums with a 64-yard pass to Warren Wells in the fourth period that gave Oakland a come-from-behind victory over Houston. Two touchdowns by Charlie Smith had given the Raiders a 14-0 lead but the Oilers went ahead in the final period on a 15-yard pass from Pete Beathard to Jerry Levas.

The Oilers missed a chance to win it when Levas dropped a pass in the clear shortly after Wells' tally.

Len Dawson's 55-yard touchdown pass to Otis Taylor and four interceptions powered Kansas City past San Diego. Dawson hit Taylor on the first play from scrimmage after the Chargers had trimmed the Chiefs' lead to 13-9.

Denver quarterback Steve Tensi enjoyed one of his finest days with three touchdown passes as the Broncos joined the Patriots under new coach Clive Rush. Two of the scoring passes went to Al Denson while Tom Smiley also scored twice.

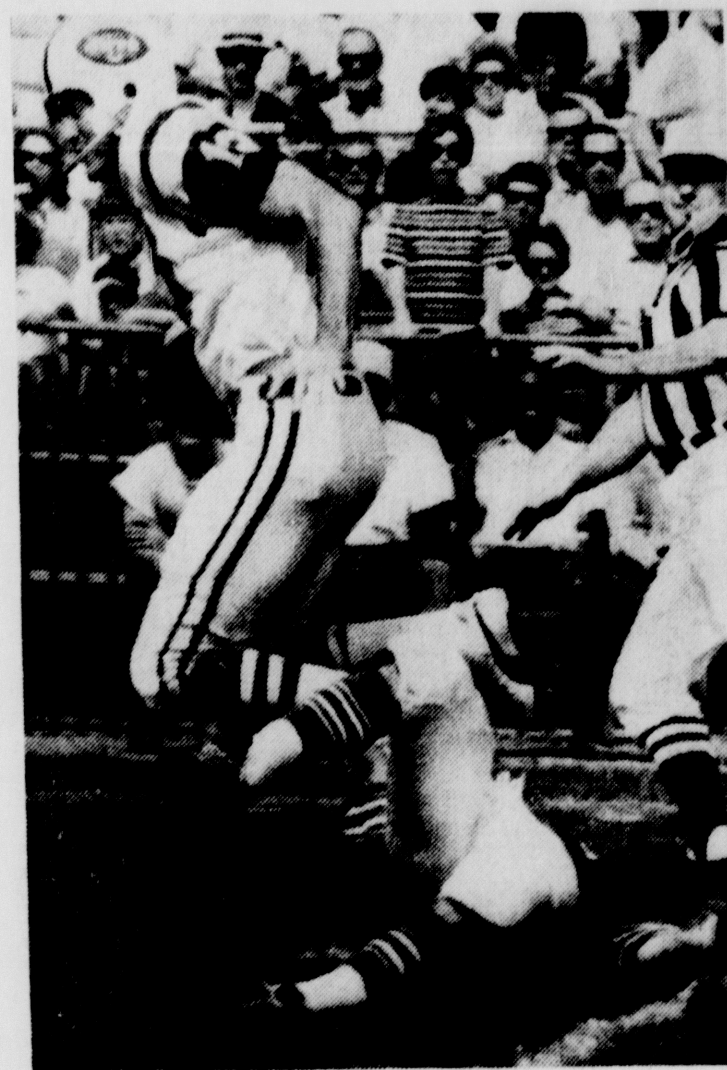

Boston quarterback Mike Taliaferro was intercepted four times, with two of the steals setting up Denver touchdowns.

Rookie Greg Cook passed for two touchdowns and Cincinnati's defense held off a late Miami rally as the Bengals gave Paul Brown his 300th coaching victory in a career spanning 35 years.

In Sunday's NFL exhibitions, Philadelphia came from behind with 12 points in the third period to beat Washington while in a nationally televised night contest Baltimore intercepted four of Roger Staubach's passes and trimmed Dallas.

Lindsey Stars In Playoffs

W. C. "Chops" Lindsey pitched an eight-inning no-hitter and Roger Lindhurst drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly, as A.J. Scarselli's knotted the Met Division play-offs at 1-1 in the Sauerbrey Softball League with a 2-1 victory over Johnny's Hotel.

The veteran hurler was near perfect as he allowed but one run in the eighth inning. Three errors resulted in the lone run for the losers. Ray Carlingo gave the winners an early lead with a third-inning homer. Johnny's knotted it in the fifth. That was all the scoring until the home half of the eighth with one out as Gus Sasso, Sal Misasi and Lindhurst hit back-to-back singles.

Colts Top Dallas As Defense Stars

By United Press International

The last time the Baltimore Colts lost is a time they'd like to forget, that was to the New York Jets in the Super Bowl.

Now the Colts are ready for their league opener Sunday against Los Angeles, and the National Football League champions will bring a 6-0 exhibition season record into that game.

The Colts completed their undefeated pre-season labors Sunday night by stopping Dallas, 23-7, despite the rah-rah scrambling of Roger Staubach, the former Navy great launching a pro football career after his service stint.

Staubach gained 118 yards scrambling and fleeing from the thunderous Colt defenders, but Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall, the two veteran quarterbacks of Baltimore, methodically carved out the win. Unitas hit on 12 of 21 passes for 127 yards in playing more than three quarters, and Morrall hit on five of nine for 42 yards. Roger tried the air 21 times, completed only six for 108 yards, and was intercepted four times.

In the only other NFL test, rookie linebacker Bill Hobbs set up a tiebreaking touchdown with a third period 28 yard return of a fumbled kickoff from the Philadelphia Eagles defeated Washington Redskins 26-17. Hobbs, a Texas Aggie graduate, put the Eagles ahead just after Sam Baker had tied the count at 10-10.

Four plays later, Redskins coach Vince Lombardi stood agast as his punter, Mike Bragg, stepped out of the end zone to hand the Eagles another two points.

Washington finished its work with a 2-4 record, while the Eagles came out with a 3-2 slate.

Decathlon Victory Last for Toomey?

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI)—A wrenched back, injured heel and fatigue combined to keep valiant Bill Toomey from a world record in the grueling decathlon during the weekend at the Indian Summer Games.

Now the 30-year-old gold medal winner at the 1968 Olympics is thinking of hanging up his spikes after the UCLA decathlon Oct. 4-5.

"That could well be my last decathlon competition," said a very tired Toomey after recovering from a post-race collapse following the 1,500-meter race that wound up this decathlon competition at this high-altitude resort.

Toomey, an English teacher at Santa Barbara City College, won the two-day event with 8,137 points, well off the world record of 8,319 held by West Germany's Kurt Bendlin and the American mark of 8,230 owned by Russ Hodge.

University of New Hampshire student Jeff Bannister took the 1,500 in 4:36.3 to finish second with 7,602 points. Barry King of England was third with 6,978 points and Rick Sloan of the Southern California Striders finished fourth in 5,735.

Toomey had a crack at both the world and American records entering the 1,500. He had piled up 7,722 points prior to the race by capturing the 110 hurdles, pole vault and javelin plus finishing second in the discus Sunday after winning the long jump, 100 and 400 meter races, placed second in the shot and third in the high jump on Saturday.

By running 4:28.7 in the 1,500, Toomey would have eclipsed Bendlin's world mark. A slower time of 4:42.6 would have given him the American decathlon record.

But a limping Toomey finished second behind Bannister in 4:58.7 and then collapsed. Earlier in the day, Toomey had scraped his left heel in the 110 hurdles and then spiked himself in the same heel during the pole vault. He injured his lower back in the javelin throw.

"I tried to stay with Bannister but my mind went blank the last 400 meters," said the discouraged athlete.

On Saturday Toomey got off to his fastest start ever in the 10-event competition. His leap of 26 feet in the long jump was the second best ever recorded in the decathlon.

The second-place finish was the best Bannister has done in the event. King, a 24-year-old British subject, is an understudy to Toomey and was competing in his first decathlon.

Sloan pulled a hamstring muscle Saturday and was hampered by a heavily bandaged thigh during Sunday's five final events.

Whitworth Wins $3200

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (UPI)—Kathy Whitworth is seriously challenging Carol Mann for top money this year on the Ladies Professional Golf Association circuit.

Miss Whitworth scrambled back from double bogey trouble Sunday to shoot a par 72 and win the $22,000 Wendell West Open with a 54-hole total of 213, one stroke ahead of runnerup Judy Rankin.

That increased Miss Whitworth's earnings for the year to $39,401, moving her to within $1,000 of the 1969 leading money winner, Miss Mann, who finished sixth and has earnings of $40,382.

Mrs. Rankin's 71 was the only sub-par round of the day, giving her a total of 214. To do it, she had to recover from an unplayable lie that gave her a bogey on the first hole.

Shirley Englehorn had a final round 73 for a third place finish at 216. Tied at 217 for fourth were Sharon Miller and Marlene Hagge.

Miss Whitworth had chopped one stroke off par over the front nine and after consecutive birdies on the 10th and 11th holes, she looked as though she would be a runaway winner. But she suffered double bogies on the next two holes, driving her ball out of bounds on the 13th.

"I thought I'd lost it right there," she said.

But she recovered to collect two more birdies and a single bogey and sank a pressure three-foot putt on the final hole for the victory.

Doak Scores In IBM Shoot

ST REMY

John Doak was the Class A winner in the IBM Watson Trophy Shoot at the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Sunday. The trap-shoot event was sponsored by the IBM Club. Doak hit a 49 out of a possible 50 to gain the honors.

Ray Markle defeated Dick Reed in a "shoot-off" to win Class B. Both men hit 48 out of 50 for the tie. Markle hit 24 of 25 in the "shoot-off". Reed had 21.

Chet Joy hit 44-50 to win Class C. Bob Mueller had a 43, while Karl Schock hit 42.

Other scorers in the A Class were Brian Sawchuk at 47, while Steve Maird and Bob Scheme dake each scored 46. Joe Aiello, Chuck Bouton Sr., and Pete Lemister tied for third place in Class B at 42.

UCLA Has Class in Opener

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Dee Andros returned home last winter from a trip East where he was offered the coaching job at the University of Pittsburgh, he was greeted by a crowd of Oregon State students chanting, "Please don't leave! Please don't leave!" Andros didn't, but he may be wishing today that he had. The reason for Andros' discomfort is a 37-0 shelling imposed on the Beavers Saturday night by UCLA, the nation's 17th-ranked team and the only member of The Associated Press Top Twenty to see action as college football began its 100th anniversary with a smattering of games.

The results of a dozen major games indicate that 1969 may be just as wild as 1968, when all sorts of offensive records fell, and a far cry from the first college game back in 1869 when Rutgers beat Princeton by a mere 6-4.

Air Force Wins

In a nationally televised contest, the Air Force and Southern Methodist filled the air with 89 passes before the fly-boys made off with a 26-22 cliff-hanger.

The biggest score was run up by West Virginia, which clobbered Cincinnati 57-11 and ruined Ray Callahan's debut as coach of the Bearcats. Callahan shouldn't have been too surprised, though. Three of Cincy's four losses a year ago were by scores of 55-34, 60-48 and 71-33.

Another new coach, Cal Stoll of Wake Forest, directed the first upset of the season. The Demon Deacons scored with five seconds left and then connected on a two-point conversion pass to nip North Carolina State 22-21.

Elsewhere, it was Villanova 41, West Chester 14; Miami, Ohio 35, Xavier, Ohio 7; Wichita State 17, Utah State 7; Drake and Louisville battled to a 24-24 tie.

Dennis Dummit, UCLA's rookie quarterback, stunned Oregon State on the fourth play from scrimmage with a 60-yard touchdown pass to Gwen Cooper and it took the Bruins only 10 minutes and seven seconds to run up a 17-0 lead.

UCLA unleashed a powerful running attack, led by Greg Jones, who scored twice, and Mickey Cureton. SMU's Chuck Hixson, the nation's leading passer as a sophomore in 1968, completed 34 of 53 tosses for 356 yards and two touchdowns but couldn't overcome a 23-0 Air Force halftime lead.

Gary Baxter, the Air Force quarterback, completed 15 of 34 for 206 yards and Dennis Leuthausser kicked field goals of 44, 40, 34 and 21 yards. "We figured it would take five touchdowns to beat them," said Air Force Coach Ben Martin. "It almost wasn't enough, when you consider that's just about what we got."

Braxton Scores Three

Three touchdowns by junior fullback Jim Braxton helped lead West Virginia to a 27-0 halftime TD pass from Mike Sherwood.

North Carolina State had a Bowden dived over for a touch-down on runs of 12 and four yards and caught a three-yard 21-14 lead with five seconds to Buz Leavitt for the winning TD pass from Mike Sherwood. left—but Wake Forest's Steve two-point conversion.

Wiltwyck Gals Score Sweep

VALATIE

Mrs. Richard L. (Mary) Treat led a huge field with low gross 87, as Wiltwyck Country Club representatives swept the first three places in the annual

Winding Brook Country Club

Women's Invitational. Mrs. Treat fired nines of 45-42 over the demanding par 75 women's layout to lead more than 150 golfers from the upper

Hudson and capital district area. Mrs. Clifford (Arlene) Spiesman, the current Wiltwyck club champion, trailed Mrs. Treat by two strokes with a 45-44-89. Mrs. Richard Gogg had third low gross with 93 but was awarded first low net on 93-23-70. Another Wiltwyck golfer, Mrs. Harvey Bostic, hit the jackpot twice, as the Ulster county unit carried home a record breaking cash total for an invitational. She tied for fourth low net at 102-26-76 and picked up a $5 prize for hitting her tee shot closes to the pin (4 feet) on the 11th hole.

Mrs. Spiesman netted 89-12-77 and Mrs. Treat had 87-14-73. Winding Brook officials said they could never recall a previous tournament where golfers from one club ever won the first three places in low gross.

Sonny Strupp Is Winner

MIDDLETOWN

Veteran driver Sonny Strupp scored a clean cut win at Orange County Fair Speedway Saturday night, holding off the top south-ern drivers that included Jack Evans, Will Cagle and Buzzy Reutmann. They finished in that order behind Strupp as Whip Mulligan took fifth and Del George 6th.

For popular Strupp the victory was a well-deserved win, his first main event victory since June 13, 1964.

A three-time winner of the popularity contests here, he took the lead from Carl Van Horn on the 10th lap and then survived three caution flags to preserve the slim lead.

Despite Cagle's third place finish, he still is a cinch to wrap up the point title. His lead over Reutmann is big enough to just about guarantee his fourth straight championship.

Next Saturday will feature a 100-lap modified show and the end of the point tabulation. Limited Sportsman driver Tommy Nott of Newburgh won his first major show of the year, but in the semi-Late Model Division, George Kueck captured his fifth victory of the campaign.

Heat winners in the Modifieds were Budd Olsen, Jack Evans and Will Cagle. Consolations went to Buzzy Reutmann and Rich Rickey.

In the Limited Sportsmen, the heats went to Tiny Milano, Rich Eurich and Fred DeGroodt. Dick De Young and Ed Davis took the consi.

Martin Papula and Dave Gibson were heat winners in the semi-late models.

MONTICELLO — Amend H., driven by Ken Heeneey, won the featured pace at 1:03.1 Saturday night at Monticello Raceway.

It was a virtual wire-to-wire for Amend H. over Dream Pick, John Manzi, Jr. in the sulky.

The winner paid $4.20, $3.40 and $3. Frontier Bruce was third.

The 8.1 double of Adios Byrd and Either Way paid $27.60. A crowd of 6,597 bet $476,342.

Meadow Lenco Wins

Meadow Lenco won the $4,000 featured mile pace at Saratoga Raceway Saturday night in 2:01.3 to pay $9, $3.40 and $2.20.

Lehi Rainbow was second and Woody Diamond was third.

The 8.7 double of Golden Fox and C.D. Texas paid $32. A crown of 5,349 bet $303,119.

Fine Shot First

Fine Shot led all the way Saturday night to take the $15,600 New York Sire Stakes for 4-year-old trotters at Batavia Downs. Fine Shot crossed the finish line in front of World Beater and Sharp Bolo to pay $2.60 to win. The time was 2:07 1/5.

Adios Wilton completed the course in 2:01 to finish a length and a half in front of Mexan. Wyandot Chief was third. The winner paid $5.40.

Pick DiBernardo X-Country Coach

STONE RIDGE

Albert Di Bernardo will coach the cross country team at Ulster County Community College this fall, Kenneth J. Wolf, the director of Athletics, announced today.

The cross country team will compete 12 times this fall, an increase of five over last year, with the season starting Sept. 30 with an away meet against Orange Community College.

Coach Di Bernardo, a founding member of the U.C.C.C. faculty, ran cross country when he attended the City College of New York and formerly coached cross country at U.C.C.C. Di Bernardo also has coached the baseball and bowling teams.

He coached the bowling team for six years at U.C.C.C. and in that time won three Region XV championships, two College Bowling League championships and one Mid-Hudson Conference championship. All told, his bowling teams brought the College 14 trophies in bowling.

Coach Di Bernardo, an assistant professor of health and physical education, is coor-

Guns of the MagnificentSevenHouse Leaders Face
Student Loan Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders and President Nixon face embarrassment and bankers increased costs if the House fails to deliver on a promise to boost interest on government-guaranteed student loans.

Members opposed to high interest rates and another group that wants Congress to deal firmly with student rioters teamed up before today's scheduled vote to try to block the raise.

The high interest fees, led by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., fought to kill the bill outright. The anti-riot forces aimed to block its passage in order to force consideration of an amendment cutting off federal aid to students involved in campus uprisings.

Convinced that if the bill gets involved in the campus unrest controversy it will never be enacted, Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., its manager, called it up today under a procedure preventing any amendments from being offered, but requiring a two-thirds majority for passage.

The House leaders' concern arose because fees needed to muster only one vote more than one-third in opposition.

Assured by congressional leaders the bill would pass early in September, Nixon urged the bankers to make loans carrying the 7 per cent rate fixed by law.

to students who need the money now to enter college. Since the prime interest rate went to 8 1/2 per cent banks have shown little interest in the program.

Reports coming to the U.S. Office of Education indicate the banks are responding to Nixon's plea. This left it up to the House to deliver the bill, which already has passed the Senate although in different form.

The bill authorizes the government to pay up to 3 per cent additional interest on the student loans. The amount would be adjusted quarterly to reflect conditions in the money market but the statutory limit would remain at 7 per cent. Under the program the government pays the interest while the student is in college and guarantees repayment.

The bill itself had wide support, except among Patman and his followers. Patman, an ardent enemy of high interest rates, said Congress is being blackmailed by the banks into passing the bill.

"What the banks are trying to do," he says, "is to refuse to make student loans so that Congress will give them more money with which to line their pockets."

Opposition by supporters of the anti-loan amendment was not to the bill itself. They wanted to force Perkins to bring it up under normal procedures that would let them offer their amendment.

Speeches Rated At Toastmasters' Recent Meeting

KINGSTON — Several members spoke at last week's Kingston Toastmasters' Club meeting at Kurta's Restaurant, Route 28 and were rated on their presentations.

President Daniel Sickles introduced the toastmaster, Gene Meigliano. Arthur Bowen was introduced as table topics chairman.

Bowen asked the members to speak on "Why," the question often asked by his three-year-old, Richard Van Dyne and John Porsch were tied for best table topics speakers.

During the speaking portion of the program, the newest member, George Odell spoke on "Why Kingston Area Needs Toastmasters." His speech was later voted the second best of the evening. The second speaker was Joseph Kelly, who spoke on the American Way of Grading People. His talk voted best of the night.

Bernie Trowbridge spoke on the advantages of using a camper when traveling.

Fred Snyder addressed the group on Some Gems from My Crown of Memories, dealing with his experiences and the interesting people he has met.

General evaluator Joseph Marckx explained the good and bad points of the speakers. Daniel Reinhard, who evaluated standing of the economic conditions in the southern states," McNair said in his prepared opening conference address.

The governors have declared their foremost topic to be higher education at this year's conference but they will be asked to vote Wednesday on a resolution denouncing federal school desegregation guidelines.

Five of the chief executives—Mills B. Godwin of Virginia, Robert Scott of North Carolina, Oreston Smith of Texas, Albert Brewer of Alabama and Maddox said they would support the idea "in principle" of a formal stand opposing federal school busing requirements.

Maddox gave reporters an advance inkling of his report, saying all the southern states will be consulted about joining forces to spread the word about the region's recent gains in economy, population and education.

"Governor Maddox has assured me the report he will present is vital to the conference and to your understanding of the economic conditions in the southern states," McNair said in his prepared opening conference address.

Dear Abby

Want to Date a Cop?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: That letter from "LIKES COPS" in Wayne, J.J., made police officers sound like playboys who have nothing better to do while on duty than make time with flirting females. As the wife of a devoted patrolman, I doubt very much if many policemen are willing to strike up "friendships" with cheap pick-ups who boldly announce that cops "turn them on."

Suburban police duties may vary, but in the big city of CLEVELAND there isn't much time for those officers to fool around. They are too busy doing their jobs. Thank you!

MRS. PATROLMAN, CLEVELAND, O.

DEAR ABBY: For all the girls who like cops: Most cops have wives who are fed up to the ears with girls who "like cops."

Also, don't get the idea that all you have to do is ride around and "smile" at a policeman in a squad car, and he is going to follow you home. policeman in a squad car, and are looking for trouble, but not the kind you're offering them.

COP'S WIFE: BOSTON

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "LIKES COPS" that if she wants to get anywhere with a policeman, she shouldn't call him a "cop." He likes to be called "police officer," or "Sir."

I ought to know. I married one, and my children don't know what the word "fuzz" or "cop" means. They are proud that their daddy is a policeman. WIFE ON AN "L.A.P.O."

DEAR ABBY: TO "LIKES COPS": Get a job at City Hall. I did and I married a policeman.

He has since changed jobs and now he works in a funeral home. I don't mind the as long as he doesn't bring his work home with him.

"HAPPY" IN KEYSER, W. VA.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe some day "LIKES COPS" will be married to a cop who "turns her on," and they will live happily ever after. If he is strong enough to turn down all the propositions he gets from other females who are also "turned on" by cops.

It is for that reason that I am the former wife of a police officer, and my children no longer have a full time father. ALONE IN ANNANDALE, VA.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the letter from the girl who "LIKES COPS." Here in Washington, D.C., such girls are called "ROAD RUNNERS." Their tactics are fine if they don't mind dating married men because at least 95 per cent of the cops I know are married. And I know plenty. COP'S WIFE: SILVER SPRING, MD.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the gal who says cops "turn."

When a cop is out of uniform he is just like any other man. No better. No worse. And any man who has ever worn a uniform can tell in a minute when he's met a uniform-happy dame. I am married to a police officer (please, not "cop") and it couldn't have been his brass buttons that turned me on because I met him in a bowling alley when he was out of uniform.

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars ("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Hold off on any journey until tonight. There is a message, a call, other form of communication which could change plans. Realize this and act accordingly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): If willing to listen to reason, financial question is settled. Be receptive. One who wants to provoke battle lacks common sense. Heed inner voice.

GEMINI (May 31-June 30): By tonight there is showdown. You find out what mate, partner really thinks. Stand tall. Strength of logic is on your side. But adhere to conservative course. And be a good listener.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect early coincides with creative endeavors. Later, there is opportunity for added income. Key is to enjoy what you do. Throw off shackles of self-doubt.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Tonight is marked for pleasure through children, other loved ones. If single, you could make meaningful contact. If married, you could reach new, constructive understanding with mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Get correspondence out of way early. Tonight settle to more basic routine. Hunch pays dividends. Share knowledge. You actually learn by teaching. Message from relative is featured.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be versatile. Important to change with the times. You may be on a short journey. Obey rules, regulations. Fun indicated through contact with one with great sense of humor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Cycle continues high, but you must protect possessions. Higher earnings may be on horizon. Yet, budget should be respected. Adhere to recent resolutions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): By tonight, you are on more positive ground. You know where you are headed — and why. Stress confidence, originality and independence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent on fulfillment of some major desires. Clandestine activity tonight could cause strain on nerves. Take family into confidence. Otherwise, you might find yourself making weak excuses.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Pressure relieved. You can relax with friends tonight. Romance is in the picture. Your attitude is poetic. But be sure others feel same way.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Career and responsibility are accentuated. Your prestige is on the line. Cooperate in community projects. Utilize experience. Display unique abilities. No day to be shy.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are a natural analyst. You see what people are made of — and you can express this through creative form. Important adjustment is due. Could be home of your own or change of residence. If single, marriage is indicated.

Jim: "Here is an interesting hand from a New Orleans reader. West opened the ace of diamonds against his four-spade contract and shifted to the deuce of clubs in spite of receiving the king of diamonds from his partner. Our correspondent decided that the shift indicated a singleton club and promptly led out ace and another trump. West got in with the king and led a second diamond, whereupon his partner gave him a club ruff and defeated the contract. He wants to know what we think of his play."

Oswald: "South could have made his contract by a very complicated play. He would have to cash dummy's ace and king of hearts and then play a second diamond. East could now play club which West could ruff, but West would then have to lead away from the king of spades or play a red card which declarer could trump in his hand, enabling him to take the spade finesse and make his contract."

Jim: "That play will work because West holds the spade king but it would fail miserably if East held it. The play taken by our reader would work, except against the actual distribution or against all four spades in the West hand. Do you want to give an opinion as to which play should be made?"

Oswald: "No, I don't, but I will. I would have made the winning play if I were declarer on the theory that West would have continued diamonds if he didn't hold the king of spades. I wouldn't guarantee my decision as being correct, but I would have made it."

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

DECISION: (Q.) My boy friend has a tremendous amount of respect for me. He shows me and tells me in many ways that he likes me very much.

But something has come up. About a week ago he asked me if it was all right with me for him to pick up tramps for the night when he goes drinking with his friends.

I told him I didn't like it. He said if I insisted he would quit but that he couldn't see why I would mind. He said he would never like girls like that because he has no respect for them. He said he just likes what he does with them. He said he could never be like that with me because he respects me.

Should I tell him to go ahead? If I ask him to stop, how can I be sure he's being honest with me? He's 18. I'm 15½. We've been getting steady for three weeks.—Bewildered in West Virginia.

(A.) The world is well supplied with boys and men who have two sets of morals and two sets of girls or women. With you, your boy friend is sober, loving, and respectful. With others he is different.

He can promise you he'll change, but he is not really likely to do so. So don't ask him to stop picking up tramps. With that settled, you must decide first whether you can accept his divided standards. If you can, you then have to ask yourself if you can keep from being jealous, and maybe lowering your own standards, maybe encouraging him to do with you what he does with other girls so he will stop doing it with them.

If any of this disturbs you, you have your answer: He's not for you.

LONG HAIR: (Q.) My parents don't like my long hair. They say I should have it cut shorter. I keep it clean and well-groomed. What do you think? — Seventeen in Pennsylvania.

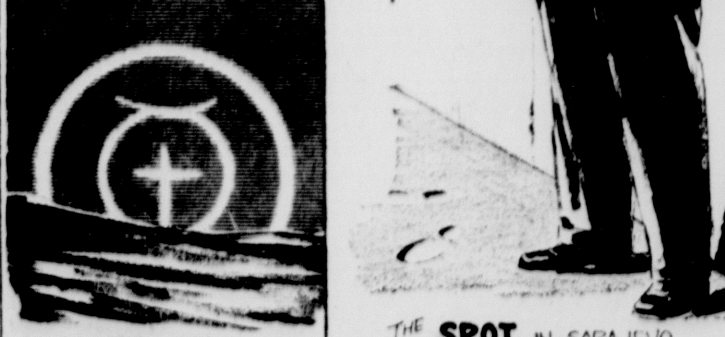

(A.) I think long hair on boys is attractive if it is clean and well-kept and is a reasonable length.

'Laugh-In' Letters on Tube

HOLLYWOOD (UPD)—Almost everyone fancies himself a humorist, and the producers of "The Rowan and Martin Laugh-In" have discovered. They receive 10,000 letters weekly—a figure that has not been subjected to audit by Price-Waterhouse—containing gags, sketches and one-liners by people who break up their friends with leg slappers. Because it seems a waste to discard this bulk of natural wit, and rather than ruin "Laugh-In" with it, a new half-hour daytime show, "Letters to Laugh-In," will be instituted Sept. 29.

Owens is Host

Host and master of ceremonies of this panel-talk game-audience participation show is Gary Owens, the long-suffering announcer on NBC-TV's top rated comedy show who stands at a microphone with his hand cupped to his ear, adding confusion to ever-present bedlam.

One week it will be Dan Rowan, Dick Martin the next, Arte Johnson, Goldie Hawn, Henry Gibson and all the rest. The prizes have dubious worth.

First prize for the best letter of the week will be an all-expense paid week in beautiful Downtown Burbank.

"We're serious about that," Owens said. "There's even talk of somebody building a Nern Hotel there, at which our big winner would stay."

Wins Bigger Award

What about second prize? "Well the worst letter of the week will win an even bigger award," Gary explained. "He or she will get an all expense, two-week vacation in beautiful zany 'Laugh-In' crew is his assessment of himself; 'I am one of those rare, insoucious prizes, but how are you going talents who every decade or so to top those vacations in shine through the banality of Hollywood, breaking the spirit of affirmation, but not necessarily about Owen as he spoke, rily entirely.'"

Checking later proved that he was telling the truth. Owens may win a three-week vacation in Burbank.

He is a member of the Ad visory Board of the Woodstock Branch of Rondout National Bank and was a member of the Vocational Advisory Board of Kingston Schools Consolidated. Tickets may be ordered by contacting Triulzi, ad ministrator, Kingston Hospital, by phone or letter.

This year's Community Chest campaign opened Saturday with parades in Woodstock, Saugerties, New Paltz and Kingston. Following the Kingston parade, more than 5,000 persons attended the Drum Corps exhibition held at Dietz Stadium. The parade started at Kingston High School and proceeded up Broadway to the stadium.

Drum corps participating were The Pacers of Poughkeepsie; the Envoys of Newburgh; The Machachoes of Troy and the Kingston Indians and the Troop 12 Indians, both of this city.

Entertainment was provided by Kingston's Up With People sing out group and Ruth McGeeney made her first public Ulster County of 1970. Miss McGeeney made her first public appearance in the parade since her crowning in Saugerties Aug. 23.

The attendance at the parade and show was the largest in the Community Chest's four-year history.

Missing Sailor Turns Up

SAN SALVADOR, Bahamas (AP) — A lone sailor missing for a month has turned up after a 114-day Atlantic crossing from Ireland undertaken to prove that a legendary monk known as Brendan the Bold could have done it 1,400 years ago.

Bill Verity, a brawny, 43-year-old Irishman who braved Hurricane Debbie en route, said he was "damn glad to be back."

The former Fort Lauderdale, Fla., boat builder put wobbly sealegs ashore Sunday after accepting a brief tow from an oil tanker.

Once on the island, the first Columbus claimed for his sovereigns in 1492, Verity encountered officialdom. His papers weren't adequate to satisfy Bahamian authorities he should be allowed into the British colony of Nassau.

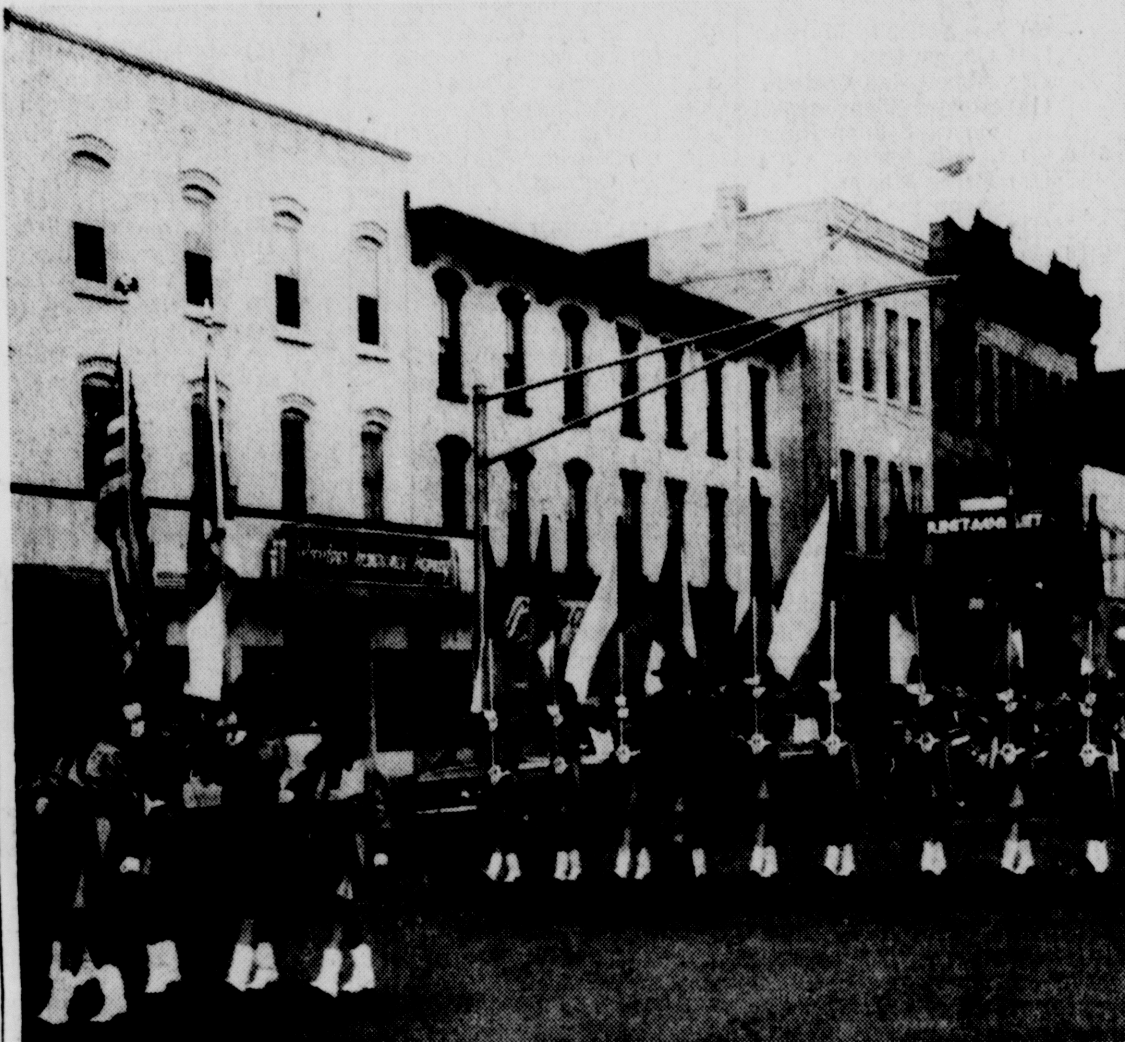

But the barrel-chested Irishman said he hoped to get the red tape untangled and sail for Nassau on Tuesday.

Verity's 20-foot-boat, named Brendan the Bold after the legendary Irish monk, put into Cockburn Harbor, about 200 miles southeast of Nassau.

He had not been seen since Aug. 14, when a Coast Guard cutter helped the sunburned sailor repair a rudder battered by heavy seas 400 miles north-east of Puerto Rico.

At that time, Verity was near Debbie's predicted path but he declined to abandon his journey.

Debbie apparently passed about 150 to 175 miles to the north of him, he said.

Boy Accused Of Burglary

KINGSTON The boy was turned over to Juvenile Aid Bureau of the police department. He will be petitioned into Family Court, authorities said.

A 13-year-old boy was taken into custody Sunday by State Police and accused of a burglary at the automotive store of Sears Roebuck in the Kingston Shopping Plaza.

Det. Lieut. Charles McCullough said the boy allegedly entered the store through an overhead window and stole a minibiike which was later recovered.
